TWO ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH JAIL PLOT

Harold Richards, 16, and Hobart Hochstetter, 17, Held in City Prison

YOUTHS TO BE QUIZZED

Suspected of Having Smuggled Saws into Marion County Jail

Harold Richards, 16, of 548 Avondale-av, and Hobart Hostetter, 17, of 501 Scranton-av, were arrested last night and are held at the city prison in connection with the plot to liberate prisoners at the county jail which was frustrated by Sheriff Deal and his deputies the night of May 24.

The two youths are suspected of having smuggled into the jail the saws used by the prisoners in their attempted escape, Sheriff Deal stated today.

They were to be questioned today by officials and will probably be taken to Juvenile Court for a hearing.

Sheriff Silent

Details of the investigation which led to arrest of Richards and Hostetter were not disclosed by the sheriff. He states that the two boys visited the jail several days prior to the night that the jail-break plot was halted.

Deal states that he now has information which is expected to result in finding of the saws, which are believed to be hidden in the jail.

The plot was disclosed to the sheriff on the afternoon of May 24 when he received a telephone call from an unknown man waring him that saws had been smuggled into the jail.

Evidence of Break

Evidence showed that the prisoners planned to make their break for liberty that night, as three of the 10 men in jail at that time were to be taken to the reformatory and penitentiary on the following day. One of the three was Mike Dye, negro bandit sentenced to the penitentiary for shooting with intent to kill in an attempted hold-up of R. L. Goetting, Leesr grocer.

The lock on the upper corridor of the jail had been sawed in two, giving the prisoners access to the rear of the building, where the plotters planned to make an opening in the wall during the night.

Deal and his deputies went to the jail at 10:30 o'clock that night, thinking that they might catch the plotters at work but found that they had not started operations, evidently intending to wait until a later hour when the sheriff and other occupants of the residence part of the jail were asleep.

Investigation thus far has failed to disclose what prisoners were ringleaders of the plot, the sheriff says.

FIFTEEN KNOWN DEAD IN KENTUCKY FLOODS

River Rises 35 Feet in Many Sections; 200 Homes Destroyed

Lexington, Ky., June 1—Fifteen are known to have drowned or died as a result of the Kentucky mountain floods, according to a check made here today.

Tuesday's casualties included five deaths, one of which is that of Dr. T. B. Bailey, whose wife, son and mother drowned Sunday night as they fled from their home on Toms Creek. Dr. Bailey had been ill, and the news of his family's tragic end caused his death.

At Bigtown Creek, 20 miles below Fleming, the bodies of Patton Jones, 58, and his grandson, Arthur Jones, 17, were recovered. Jones had rescued his wife and two children and had returned to his cabin to assist his grandson when their cabin collapsed.

Two lone prisoners, still unidentified, were drowned when the jail at Burton, Ky., was washed away in the waters of the left fork of Beaver Creek.

Hazard, Ky., is isolated from electrical communication, roads and railroads.

Two persons are reported to have been drowned at Camp Branch in Letcher County, where six persons were reported drowned Tuesday.

The Kentucky River has risen 35 feet in many sections destroying at least 200 homes.

PROTEST APPLICATION

Columbus, June 1—Protest was filed today with the state utilities commission by officials of the Dayton & Troy Electric Railway Co. against the application of John Howe for permission to operate a motor freight route between Dayton and Sidney. LIKELY WINNER AGAIN

Van Orman Again Winner of National Balloon Race, Unofficial Estimates Show

"Goodyear" Lands Near Bar Harbor, Me., Distance of 705 Miles from Akron, Starting Point of Contest; Official Announcement To Come from Washington

Akron, June 1—Unofficial estimates today indicated that W. T. Van Orman, thrice winner of the national balloon race, and one-time winner of the international contest, had again copped the national honors.

The "Goodyear," piloted by Van Orman, landed near Bar Harbor, Me., at a spot, estimated to be 705 miles from Akron, the starting point of the race.

Running Van Orman a close second, Capt. William Kepner, piloting the Army No. 3 entry, brought his craft to earth at Biddeford, Me., 690 miles from Akron.

Third in the unofficial list was Pilot S. A. Rasmussen, of the Detroit II, which landed at Laconia, N. H., 580 miles from the start.

The Detroit III, the only entry still missing, may have covered, or may cover a greater air-line distance than either the Goodyear, Army No. 3 or Detroit II, however. The Scripps-Howard entry, shortly before noon, reported landing at Eastman, Quebec, 595 miles from Akron.

The three balloons traversing the greatest distance, and remaining intact, win the right to represent the United States at the international races starting in Denver next September.

Official estimates will be announced from Washington.

TEST LOOMS AS DONAHEY WOULD NAME APPOINTEE

Governor Expected To Select Columbus Attorney To Succeed Maullar

Columbus, June 1—With indications prevalent today that Gov. Vic Donahey will soon announce "a recess appointee" as sucessor to Frank B. Maullar, Chillicothe, Republican member of the state utilities commission, prospects for a test suit to determine the extent of the governor's appointing power loomed.

The Ohio Legislature adjourned sine die Tuesday without taking action on the governor's request that the senate confirm Donahey's selection of Attorney Chalmers Parker, Republican, Columbus, to succeed Maullar for a six-year term.

Maullar's term expired Feb. 1, last. The governor is expected to select Parker as the "recess appointee."

Commenting upon the governor's contemplated action, Maullar said: "We will let the supreme court decide whether he (Donahey) acted within his rights."

Prominent Republican attorneys here expressed belief that the governor possesses no legal right to appoint a successor to Maullar unless the governor's appointee is confirmed by the senate. In the absence of such confirmation, the governor, they contended, is without authority to remove Maullar, regardless of whether the legislature "recessed" or adjourned sine die.

TAX CUT, RELIEF

Longworth Outlines Legislative Program of Next Congress

Washington, June 1—Flood control and tax relief legislation will be given the right of way in the new congress, Speaker Longworth declared today after a conference at the White House.

The tax cut will be substantial but it is impossible at this time to estimate the amount that will be lopped off, Longworth said.

Longworth will attend the flood control conference called in Chicago by Mayor William Hale Thompson.

BELIEVE DEAD GIRL VICTIM OF "GAS HAWKS"

Cleveland, June 1—A dead girl who was carried into a local hospital here early Tuesday morning by two youths, who disappeared immediately afterward, has been identified as Elizabeth Skriben, East Cleveland. Police believe the girl was the victim of "gas hawks." One suspect was being held today for investigation.

EIGHTY MISSING AFTER SHIP SINKS IN STORM

Fate of Passengers Unaccounted for in Doubt for Several Days

Manila, P. I., June 1—Between 80 and 100 passengers aboard the steamer Negros were missing today following the sinking of the vessel in a terrific typhoon off Romblom Island.

Fate of the passengers unaccounted for will not be known for several days as the ship sank off a barren coast which cannot be reached by land. Survivors told of seeing many bodies washed upon the shore. Even living victims reaching the bleak coast will die, it was said, because motorboats cannot navigate the choppy seas and larger vessels cannot thread a path between the tiny islands.

The captain and two officers of the negroes are among the missing. They are believed to be drowned.

Acting Governor General Gilmore ordered the constabulary and a corps of doctors to go to the scene of the disaster and to search for and assist survivors of the wreck.

The Negros was plying in the interisland trade. Caught in the vortex of the tropical maelstrom, the ship foundered almost immediately.

GIRL TRIES DEATH

Young Film Actress Identified as Former Follies Beauty

Los Angeles, June 1—The name of Mary Lygo was linked with a mysterious suicide attempt here today when a young film actress, believed to be dying in a police hospital, was identified as the former Follies beauty who commanded the headlines several years ago with a sensational heart balm suit against Gordon C. Thorne, member of a prominent Chicago family.

The identification was made by Ray Howard, motion picture actor, after the girl had been admitted to the hospital under the name of "Irene Muller."

Police were told by the apartment owners that the girl's real name was Irene Goodall, whose mother, Mrs. Mary Goodall lived at Akron, Ohio.

RESIGNATIONS OF TWO SHOVEL MEN TENDERED

Frank H. King and Son, Arthur, End Services with Company

COMBINE DEPARTMENTS

Elder King One of Oldest Employes; With Industry 43 Years

Resignations of Arthur F. King as director of sales of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and of his father, Frank H. King, as an assistant sales manager, were announced today at the company's office.

The resignations became effective today and D. J. Shelton, chief of the engineering department, took over management of the sales service. Mr. Shelton will be permanently in charge of both the sales and engineering departments, J. L. Ackerson, president of the company, stated.

Retirement of Frank H. King from connection with the company is an event of unusual importance and interest, due to the fact that in point of service he is one of the two oldest employes of the concern.

Long Experience

Mr. King entered the employ of the company 43 years ago when it started operations at its present location. He helped build the first dredge manufactured by the company and was also in charge of its operation. He also operated the second shovel turned out from the original plant.

Mr. King knows the steam shovel business from the ground up as the result of his long and thorough training in virtually every department of the local plant and offices.

The only other employe ranking with Mr. King in length of service with the company is Charles Cummins, chief engineer of the power plant. Both Mr. King and Mr. Cummins began working for the company about the same time in 1881.

Served as Sales Head

Mr. King served as sales manager for 20 years. His son, Arthur F. King, became director of sales four years ago, coming here from New York City, where he was manager of the Engineering News, a well-known trade journal published by McGraw-Hill & Co.

Prior to locating in New York he was employed in the advertising service of McGraw-Hill & Co. in Cleveland and Chicago.

Neither Frank H. King nor his son has decided upon plans for the future, they stated today.

To Tour West

Frank H. King, accompanied by his wife, will leave Monday for a tour of the West. They expect to spend about two months visiting various cities and other points of interest stopping first at Denver and continuing to San Francisco, then going up the coast to Portland and Seattle. Their itinerary will include the Yosemite Valley, Yellowstone National Park and various other places.

MacMurray Sees No Present Need For Peking Evacuation

Peking, June 1—American Minister John Van A. MacMurray replying today to an inquiry from the United States regarding the outlook for the safety of foreigners, said he believed present conditions did not warrant the evacuation of American women and children from Peking.

The arrival of additional contingents of Japanese and French troops in Peking indicates that a common decision has been reached to hold the Peking legations, which policy, it is understood, has the approval of the American diplomatic authorities.

TO CHANGE AMERICAN MARINE BASE IN CHINA

Washington, June 1—The American marine base in China is to be shifted from Shanghai to Tien-Tsin, along the northern seacoast, it was learned here today. Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler, commanding, is now perfecting the arrangements.

The change is understood to be due to the increasing disorders in north China, and the possible necessity of having to protect the legation at Pekin.

New York Indignant When Coolidge Calls Lindbergh To National Capital First

GOTHAM BOILS AS CELEBRATION FALLS THROUGH

Blame Thrown on Shoulders of Col. Theodore Roosevelt; Politics Charged

NOT IN SERVICE, CLAIM

Mayor Walker Chagrined; Belief Held New York Due First Visit

New York, June 1—Indignation reached a boiling point among Democratic politicians in New York City this afternoon when they learned that Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh will be brought to Washington before he comes to New York for the greatest reception ever accorded any individual, and they were quick to throw the whole blame on the shoulders of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, the former Republican assistant secretary of navy.

Roosevelt, they charged, without permitting the use of their names, had suggested to influential Washington friends, that Lindbergh be asked to come to Washington. They charged that Roosevelt was piqued because of certain plans in connection with the New York reception.

Colonel Roosevelt, in a statement to International News Service, promptly denied these charges, branding them as untrue in every respect.

Plans "Disrupted"

Grover Whalen, chairman of Mayor James J. Walker's committee for reception of distinguished guests, said the change in Lindbergh's destination had "disrupted most of New York's plans." The great reception in the bay and the parade of 10,000 troops from the Battery to 59th-st and Fifth-av will have to be abandoned, he declared.

Roosevelt categorically denied statements made by Democratic politicians that he had invited Lindbergh to his home; that he, Roosevelt, was told that no private functions were being arranged for Lindbergh and that, then, Roosevelt's friends sought to have Roosevelt named chairman of the big banquet to be given in New York in Lindbergh's honor. No chairman for the banquet has been selected and the Democrats indicated they were certain it would not be Roosevelt.

"Not in Service"

"Lindbergh is not a member of the army or navy," said Whalen, "nor is he under the direct supervision of the state department.

"As far as I know the government gave Lindbergh no particular aid in his flight.

"He made his epoch-making flight from a flying field adjacent to New York City. He flew from New York to Paris and we believe he should be allowed to come back to New York before he visits any other city."

Mayor Walker was obviously disconcerted by the unexpected movement from Washington to bring the flier to that city first.

BROOKLYN, LONG ISLAND FEELS TEMBLOR EFFECTS

Dishes Hurled from Walls in Jersey City Residences

New York, June 1 — Houses were rocked in Brooklyn, Long Island, and all along the Jersey coast as far as Tom's River today during three earth tremors recorded at Fordham University. The tremors extended all along the Atlantic coast.

In Jersey City dishes were hurled from the walls of several homes and in Red Bank, houses and buildings trembled and people ran into the street.

DISTURBANCE OF LOCAL NATURE

Washington, June 1—The earth temblor, which shook houses along the New York and New Jersey shores today, was of a local character, according to Father Tondorf, head of the Georgetown University observatory.

The quake failed to register on the seismograph here.

"We have no record of the temblor," said Faith Tondorf. "It was of very local character and has no significance."

Mrs. Hamel, the state's star witness in its dissolution suit against the House of David, sat calmly through the barrage of questions shouted at her in a severe cross examination by W. J. Barnard, of Paw Paw, chief defense counsel.

NO POLITICS IN VISIT—COOLIDGE

Washington, June 1 President Coolidge acted upon his own initiative in inviting Lindbergh to re enter the United States via Washington, it was said at the White House today anent reports from New York that Democratic and state officials were incensed over the nullification of Gotham's ambitious plans for receiving the transoceanic flier.

Mr. Coolidge, it was said, considered it more fitting that Lindbergh should have a welcome tendered by the national government than for him to be welcomed merely by the greatest city in the country. Politics, it was said at the White House, had nothing to do with it.

LINDY IS MADE BIG AIR OFFER BY HENRY FORD

General Managership of Aircraft Division and Interest Proffered, Claim

London, June 1—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh was informed today that a cablegram was awaiting him in Paris offering him the general managership of the aircraft division of the Ford Motor Co. and an interest in the Ford airplane enterprises claimed to be worth $10,000,000.

The offer was made by Henry Ford through E. G. Liebold, confidential secretary of the billionaire automobile manufacturer. The cablegram was buried in the huge mass of letters and messages from all corners of the earth offering Lindbergh almost everything the world has to offer.

Lindy Enthused

Lindbergh refused to discuss the offer pending delivery of the message but made no attempt to conceal an enthusiastic interest in the possibilities such a job would offer for the pursuit of his great passion—development of aviation.

There is believed to be more than here worship behind Ford's offer. The Ford Motor Co. apparently has found in Lindbergh a man who can bring plenty of publicity to the Ford aircraft industries and more than that—mechanical genius for the practical development of a department of the Ford enterprises which Mr. Ford and his son, Edsel, have repeatedly said was not getting enough of their attention.

The aircraft division of the Ford Motor Co. is known as the Stout Metal Airplane Co. Edsel Ford is president.

William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Co. and William B. Stout, inventor of the metal planes, are vice presidents in direct charge of the company.

The company today has one of the largest and finest airports in the country, equipped with two hangars and a mooring mast for dirigibles. Present holdings of the company, including the factory at Dearborn, patent rights, and the airport are conservatively estimated to be worth $2,500,000.

Several experimental airplanes were built by the company shortly after Stout

YOUTH ACCEPTS INVITATION TO WASHINGTON

"Lindy" Will Take U. S. Cruiser from Cherbourg for America

DUE IN COUNTRY JUNE 11

Capital Authorities About To Make Pans for Gigantic Welcome

Washington, June 1—Capt. Lindbergh today accepted "with thanks" President Coolidge's offer of the U. S. Cruiser Memphis on which to return to the United States.

The Memphis will pick up the flier at Cherbourg and come straight to Washington, where it is planned that he will be honored by the government on the afternoon of Saturday, June 11.

Captain Lindbergh's acceptance was cabled to the state department by Frederick Sterling, American charge in London, and relayed to the president at the White House. It merely stated that Lindbergh accepted the president's invitation "with thanks" and would arrange the details with Vice Admiral Burrage, U. S. naval commander in European waters.

Secretary of war Davis, one of the cabinet committee, declined to comment on the irritation caused in New York by the capital's taking the Lindbergh celebration. It was indicated, however, that this phase of the situation had been carefully considered before the cablegram was dispatched to Lindbergh.

Due on June 11

The invitation cabled the transocean flier by the special cabinet committee calls for his embarking on the U. S. Cruiser Memphis at Cherbourg, and a race to get to Washington by June 11. The cabinet committee had in mind only that President Coolidge it due to leave the capital for the Summer White House in South Dakota on June 13, and it was thought desirable that presidential honors should be paid Lindbergh in Washington rather than in the Black Hills. June 11 comes on Saturday, and it is desired, if possible, to hold the ceremonies in the White House grounds on that date, or at least not later than Monday morning.

Apparently the cabinet officers responsible for the shift in plans had not contemplated the resentment of New York municipal officials, who have been engaged for days in preparations for the greatest reception ever given a visitor.

Immediately after the announcement of the invitation being cabled Lindbergh, municipal officials here began eleventh hour plans for a reception. Up to that time it had been considered a foregone conclusion that Lindbergh would land in New York; Hence nothing like a municipal reception had been contemplated. Now, however, it is planned to make the day a gala one, with possibly a half holiday for the thousands of government clerks.

Lindbergh probably will find Pennsylvania-av lined with soldiers to do him honor. Preliminary plans call for his landing at Washington Navy Yard, and a triumphal procession up the historic avenue between lines of troops to the White House where he will receive the distinguished flying crew and probably a colonelcy in the air reserves.

The cruiser Memphis is now at Rotterdam. She is capable of the fastest of the newer cruisers, capable of 35 knots an hour. Under forced draught she probably could make New York or Chesapeake Bay in five days from Cherbourg.

JOHN KURTZ, 25, GOES ON TRIAL IN LOCAL COURT

Second of Eight Men Indicted in Farm Thefts Up for Hearing

John Kurtz, 25, went on trial in the court of common pleas this morning on an indictment charging him with grand larceny and receiving and concealing stolen property. He is the second of the eight men indicted as members of Marion County's farm robber band to face trial. James Henry, 20, was found guilty last week of participation in the robberies.

Kurtz was indicted in connection with the theft of 190 chickens valued at $125 from Ernest Jerew of near Essex on the night of April 29 and also theft of 25 hogs, valued at $250, from the Otis Johnson farm near Agosta, on May 4. He is being tried only for the Johnson robbery.

Shortly after the trial got under way, Attorney Lease of Kenton, representing Kurtz, made a motion to exclude Kurtz' alleged confession from the record of evidence. The motion was overruled by Judge Scofield.

The same ruling was given when an effort was made to exclude Henry's confession in his trial last week.

Seven Sign, Claim

Seven of the men taken into custody in the round-up of alleged farm robberies several weeks ago are said to have signed confessions. The only one of the eight who refused to confess was W. C. "Shorty" Longfellow, of LaRue, who will go on trial Wednesday.

The Kurtz trial was expected to be concluded this afternoon. The jury in the Henry case returned a verdict of guilty after being out only 35 minutes.

The list of farm robbery suspects under arrest was increased to nine Sunday morning when Cecil Holcomb, 21, was taken into custody at the home of a relative on Roma-st by Sheriff James A. Deal and Deputy Sheriff Vane Ireland. He is held at the city prison for investigation.

Holcomb, officers say, had been sought since the sheriff started the round-up of suspects early this month.

Pleads Guilty

Raymond Needles, indicted by the last grand jury on charges of carrying concealed weapons and receiving a stolen automobile, pleaded guilty to the concealed weapon charge when arraigned before Judge Scofield, this morning. He had previously pleaded not guilty. He will be sentenced later.

Needles was arrested with Pearl McAdams in connection with the theft of an automobile from Safety Director W. B. Strayer. McAdams pleaded guilty and is now serving a term in the Mansfield reformatory.

Files Answer

Clara F. Shank, plaintiff in a divorce suit against Barney Shank, today filed a reply to the answer and cross petition filed last week by her husband, in which he asked for divorce and alimony.

Through her attorney, Louis E. Myers, Mrs. Shank denies that Shank has any valid claim against the residence property in which she is living at 155 N. Vine-st. She asks that he be barred from any interest in the property, that his cross petition be dismissed and that she be granted divorce and alimony.

Shank in his cross petition alleged that he is practically without funds as the result of payments made to his wife and the purchase of property turned over to her. The Vine-st property is included in the list, he said.

Mrs. Shank admits that she filed two other suits for divorce in the Ashland County court before they moved to Marion County and that she withdrew both actions when Shank promised to treat her with proper kindness and consideration. He failed to fulfill his promise, she asserts.

She alleges that Shank has bonds and money in excess of $3,500 and that some of this has been placed in the name of his child by a former marriage for the purpose of defrauding Mrs. Shank and preventing her from collecting alimony.

Shank was 66 years of age and Mrs. Shank 46 at the time of their marriage.

TWO ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH JAIL PLOT

Harold Richards, 16, and Hobart Hochstetter, 17, Held in City Prison

YOUTHS TO BE QUIZZED

Suspected of Having Smuggled Saws into Marion County Jail

Harold Richards 16, of 548 Avondale-ay, and Hobart Hostetter, 17, of 501 Serantonway, were arrested last night and are held at the city prison in connection with the plot to liberate prisoners at the county jail which was frustrated by Sheriff Deal and his deputies the night of May 24

The two youths are suspected of having smuggled into the jail the saws used by the prisoners in their attempted escape, Sheriff Deal stated today.

They were to be questioned today by officials and will probably be taken to Juvenile Court for a hearing.

Sheriff Silent

Details of the investigation which led to arrest of Richards and Hostetter were not disclosed by the sheriff. He states that the two boys visited the jail several days prior to the night that the jail-break plot was halted

Deal states that he now has information which is expected to result in finding of the saws, which are believed to be hidden in the jail.

The plot was disclosed to the sheriff on the afternoon of May 24 when he received a telephone call from an unknown man waring him that saws had been smuggled into the jail.

Evidence of Break

Evidence showed that the prisoners planned to make their break for liberty that night, as three of the 10 men in jail at that time were to be taken to the reformatory and penitentiary on the following day. One of the three was Mike Dye, negro bandit sentenced to the penitentiary for shooting with intent to kill in an attempted hold up of R. C. Goetting, Lee st grocer

The lock on the upper corridor of the jail had been sawed in two, giving the prisoners access to the rear of the building, where the plotters planned to make an opening in the wall during the night.

Deal and his deputies went to the jail at 10:30 o'clock that night, thinking that they might catch the plotters at work but found that they had not started operations, evidently intending to wait until a later hour when the sheriff and other occupants of the residence part of the jail were asleep.

Investigation thus far has failed to disclose what prisoners were ringleaders of the plot, the sheriff says.

FIFTEEN KNOWN DEAD IN KENTUCKY FLOODS

River Rises 35 Feet in Many Sections; 200 Homes Destroyed

Lexington, Ky., June 1—Fifteen are known to have drowned or died as a result of the Kentucky mountain floods, according to a check made here today.

Tuesday's casualties included five deaths, one of which is that of Dr. F. B. Bailey, whose wife, son and mother drowned Sunday night as they fled from their home on Toms Creek. Dr. Bailey had been ill, and the news of his family's tragic end caused his death.

At Bigtown Creek, 20 miles below Fleming, the bodies of Patton Jones, 58, and his grandson, Arthur Jones, 17, were recovered. Jones had rescued his wife and two children and had returned to his cabin to assist his grandson when their cabin collapsed.

Two lone prisoners, still unidentified, were drowned when the jail at Burton, Ky., was washed away in the waters of the left fork of Beaver Creek.

Hazard, Ky., is isolated from electrical communication, roads and railroads.

Two persons are reported to have been drowned at Camp Branch in Letcher County, where six persons were reported drowned Tuesday.

The Kentucky River has risen 35 feet in many sections destroying at least 200 homes.

LIKELY WINNER AGAIN

Van Orman Again Winner of National Balloon Race, Unofficial Estimates Show

"Goodyear" Lands Near Bar Harbor, Me., Distance of 705 Miles from Akron, Starting Point of Contest; Official Announcement To Come from Washington

Akron, June 1—Unofficial estimates today indicated that W. T. Van Orman, thrice winner of the national balloon race, and one-time winner of the international contest, had again copped the national honors.

The "Goodyear," piloted by Van Orman, landed near Bar Harbor, Me., at a spot, estimated to be 705 miles from Akron, the starting point of the race

Running Van Orman a close second, Capt. William Kepner, piloting the Army No. 3 entry, brought his craft to earth at Biddeford, Me., 690 miles from Akron.

Third in the unofficial list was Pilot S. A. Rasmussen, of the Detroit II, which landed at Laconia, N. H., 580 miles from the start

The Detroit III, the only entry still missing, may have covered, or may cover a greater air line distance than either the Goodyear, Army No. 3 or Detroit II, however. The Scripps-Howard entry, shortly before noon, reported landing at Eastman, Quebec, 565 miles from Akron.

The three balloons traversing the greatest distance, and remaining intact, win the right to represent the United States at the international races starting in Denver next September

Official estimates will be announced from Washington.

TEST LOOMS AS DONAHEY WOULD NAME APPOINTEE

Governor Expected To Select Columbus Attorney To Succeed Maullar

Columbus, June 1—With indications prevalent today that Gov. Vic Donahey will soon announce "a recess appointee" as successor to Frank B. Maullar, Chillicothe, Republican member of the state utilities commission, prospects for a test suit to determine the extent of the governor's appointing power loomed

The Ohio Legislature adjourned sine die Tuesday without taking action on the governor's request that the senate confirm Donahey's selection of Attorney Chalmers Parker, Republican, Columbus, to succeed Maullar for a six-year term.

Maullar's term expired Feb. 1, last. The governor is expected to select Parker as the "recess appointee."

Commenting upon the governor's contemplated action, Maullar said: "We will let the supreme court decide whether he (Donahey) acted within his rights."

Prominent Republican attorneys here expressed belief that the governor possesses no legal right to appoint a successor to Maullar unless the governor's appointee is confirmed by the senate. In the absence of such confirmation, the governor, they contended, is without authority to remove Maullar, regardless of whether the legislature "recessed" or adjourned sine die.

TAX CUT, RELIEF

Longworth Outlines Legislative Program of Next Congress

Washington, June 1—Flood control and tax relief legislation will be given the right of way in the new congress, Speaker Longworth declared today after a conference at the White House.

The tax cut will be substantial but it is impossible at this time to estimate the amount that will be lopped off, Longworth said.

Longworth will attend the flood control conference called in Chicago by Mayor William Hale Thompson.

Cleveland, June 1—A dead girl who was carried into a local hospital here early Tuesday morning by two youths, who disappeared immediately afterward, has been identified as Elizabeth Shriber, East Cleveland. Police believe the girl was the victim of "gas hawks." One suspect was being held today for investigation.

RESIGNATIONS OF TWO SHOVEL MEN TENDERED

Frank H. King and Son, Arthur, End Services with Company

COMBINE DEPARTMENTS

Elder King One of Oldest Employes; With Industry 43 Years

Resignations of Arthur F. King as director of sales of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and of his father, Frank H. King, as an assistant sales manager, were announced today at the company's office.

The resignations became effective today and D. J. Shelton chief of the engineering department, took over management of the sales service. Mr. Shelton will be permanently in charge of both the sales and engineering departments, J. L. Ackerson, president of the company, stated

Retirement of Frank H. King from connection with the company is an event of unusual importance and interest, due to the fact that in point of service he is one of the two oldest employes of the concern.

Long Experience

Mr. King entered the employ of the company 43 years ago when it started operations at its present location. He helped build the first dredge manufactured by the company and was also in charge of its operation. He also operated the second shovel turned out from the original plant.

Mr. King knows the steam shovel business from the ground up as the result of his long and thorough training in virtually every department of the local plant and offices.

The only other employe ranking with Mr. King on length of service with the company is Charles Cummins, chief engineer of the power plant. Both Mr. King and Mr. Cummins began working for the company about the same time in 1881.

Served as Sales Head

Mr. King served as sales manager for 20 years. His son, Arthur F. King, became director of sales four years ago, coming here from New York City, where he was manager of the Engineering News, a well known trade journal published by McGraw Hill & Co.

Prior to locating in New York he was employed in the advertising service of McGraw-Hill & Co. in Cleveland and Chicago.

Neither Frank H. King nor his son has decided upon plans for the future, they stated today.

To Tour West

Frank H. King accompanied by his wife, will leave Monday for a tour of the West. They expect to spend about two months visiting various cities and other points of interest stopping first at Denver and continuing to San Francisco, then going up the coast to Portland and Seattle. Their itinerary will include the Yosemite Valley, Yellowstone National Park and various other places.

MacMurray Sees No Present Need For Peking Evacuation

Peking, June 1—American Minister John Van A. MacMurray replying today to an inquiry from the United States regarding the outlook for the safety of foreigners, said he believed present conditions did not warrant the evacuation of American women and children from Peking.

The arrival of additional contingents of Japanese and French troops in Peking indicates that a common decision has been reached to hold the Peking legations, which policy, it is understood, has the approval of the American diplomatic authorities.

TO CHANGE AMERICAN MARINE BASE IN CHINA

Washington, June 1—The American marine base in China is to be shifted from Shanghai to Tien-Tsin, along the northern seacoast, it was learned here today. Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler, commanding, is now perfecting the arrangements.

The change is understood to be due to the increasing disorders in north China, and the possible necessity of having to protect the legation at Pekin.

EIGHTY MISSING AFTER SHIP SINKS IN STORM

Fate of Passengers Unaccounted for in Doubt for Several Days

Manila, P. I., June 1—Between 80 and 100 passengers aboard the steamer Negros were missing today following the sinking of the vessel in a terrific typhoon off Romblom Island.

Fate of the passengers unaccounted for will not be known for several days as the ship sank off a barren coast which cannot be reached by land. Survivors told of seeing many bodies washed upon the shore. Even living victims reaching the bleak coast will die, it was said, because motorboats cannot navigate the choppy seas and larger vessels cannot thread a path between the tiny islands.

The captain and two officers of the Negros are among the missing. They are believed to be drowned

Acting Governor General Gilmore ordered the constabulary and a corps of doctors to go to the scene of the disaster and to search for and assist survivors of the wreck.

The Negros was plying in the interisland trade. Caught in the vortex of the tropical maelstrom, the ship foundered almost immediately.

GIRL TRIES DEATH

Young Film Actress Identified as Former Follies Beauty

Los Angeles, June 1—The name of Mary Lugo was linked with a mysterious suicide attempt here today when a young film actress, believed to be dying in a police hospital, was identified as the former Follies beauty who commanded the headlines several years ago with a sensational heart balm suit against Gordon C. Thorne, member of a prominent Chicago family.

The identification was made by Ray Howard, motion picture actor, after the girl had been admitted to the hospital under the name of "Irene Muller."

Police were told by the apartment owners that the girl's real name was Irene Goodall, whose mother, Mrs. Mary Goodall lived at Akron, Ohio.

New York Indignant When Coolidge Calls Lindbergh To National Capital First

GOTHAM BOILS AS CELEBRATION FALLS THROUGH

Blame Thrown on Shoulders of Col. Theodore Roosevelt; Politics Charged

NOT IN SERVICE, CLAIM

Mayor Walker Chagrined; Belief Held New York Due First Visit

New York, June 1—Indignation reached a boiling point among Democratic politicians in New York City this afternoon when they learned that Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh will be brought to Washington before he comes to New York for the greatest reception ever accorded any individual, and they were quick to throw the whole blame on the shoulders of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, the former Republican assistant secretary of navy.

Roosevelt, they charged, without permitting the use of their names, had suggested to influential Washington friends that Lindbergh be asked to come to Washington. They charged that Roosevelt was piqued because of certain plans in connection with the New York reception

Colonel Roosevelt, in a statement to International News Service promptly denied these charges, branding them as untrue in every respect

Plans "Disrupted"

Grover Whalen, chairman of Mayor James J. Walker's committee for reception of distinguished guests, said the change in Lindbergh's destination had "disrupted most of New York's plans." The great reception in the bay and the parade of 10,000 troops from the Battery to 59th st and Fifth av will have to be abandoned, he declared.

Roosevelt categorically denied statements made by Democratic politicians that he had invited Lindbergh to his home, that he, Roosevelt, was told that no private functions were being arranged for Lindbergh and that, then, Roosevelt's friends sought to have Roosevelt named chairman of the big banquet to be given in New York in Lindbergh's honor. No chairman for the banquet has been selected and the Democrats indicated they were certain it would not be Roosevelt

"Not in Service"

"Lindbergh is not a member of the army or navy," said Whalen, "nor is he under the direct supervision of the state department.

"As far as I know the government gave Lindbergh no particular aid in his flight

"He made his epoch-making flight from a flying field adjacent to New York City. He flew from New York to Paris and we believe he should be allowed to come back to New York before he visits any other city."

Mayor Walker was obviously disconcerted by the unexpected movement from Washington to bring the flier to that city first.

BROOKLYN, LONG ISLAND FEELS TEMBLOR EFFECTS

Dishes Hurled from Walls in Jersey City Residences

New York, June 1 — Houses were rocked in Brooklyn, Long Island, and all along the Jersey coast as far as Toms River today during three earth tremors recorded at Fordham University. The tremors extended all along the Atlantic coast.

In Jersey City dishes were hurled from the walls of several homes and in Red Bank, houses and buildings trembled and people ran into the street.

* * *

DISTURBANCE OF LOCAL NATURE

Washington, June 1—The earth temblor, which shook houses along the New York and New Jersey shores today, was of a local character, according to Father Tondorf, head of the Georgetown University observatory.

The quake failed to register on the seismograph here.

"We have no record of the temblor," said Faith Tondorf. "It was of very local character and has no significance."

State Witness Says "Queen" Was Spectator at "Rites"

Mrs. Hansel, the state's star witness in its dissolution suit against the House of David, sat calmly through the barrage of questions shouted at her in a severe cross examination by W. J. Bernard, of Paw Paw, chief defense counsel.

NO POLITICS IN VISIT—COOLIDGE

Washington, June 1 President Coolidge acted upon his own initiative in inviting Lindbergh to re-enter the United States via Washington, it was said at the White House today amid reports from New York that Democratic and state officials were incensed over the nullification of Gotham's ambitious plans for receiving the transoceanic flier.

Mr Coolidge, it was said, considered it more fitting that Lindbergh should have a welcome tendered by the national government than for him to be welcomed merely by the greatest city in the country. Politics it was said at the White House, had nothing to do with it.

LINDY IS MADE BIG AIR OFFER BY HENRY FORD

General Managership of Aircraft Division and Interest Proffered, Claim

London June 1 Capt Charles A. Lindbergh was informed today that a cablegram was awaiting him in Paris offering him the general managership of the aircraft division of the Ford Motor Co. and an interest in the Ford airplane enterprises claimed to be worth $10,000,000.

The offer was made by Henry Ford through E. G. Liebold, confidential secretary of the billionaire automobile manufacturer. The cablegram was buried in the huge mass of letters and messages from all corners of the earth offering Lindbergh almost everything the world has to offer.

Lindy Reticent

Lindbergh refused to discuss the offer pending delivery of the message but made no attempt to conceal an enthusiastic interest in the possibilities such a job would offer for the pursuit of his great passion—development of aviation

There is believed to be more than hero worship behind Ford's offer. The Ford Motor Co. apparently has found in Lindbergh a man who can bring plenty of publicity to the Ford aircraft industries and more than that—mechanical genius for the practical development of a department of the Ford enterprises which Mr Ford and his son, Edsel, have repeatedly said was not getting enough of their attention.

The aircraft division of the Ford Motor Co. is known as the Stout Metal Airplane Co. Edsel Ford is president.

William B Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Co. and William B Stout, inventor of the metal planes, are vice presidents in direct charge of the company.

The company today has one of the largest and finest airports in the country, equipped with two hangars and a mooring mast for dirigibles. Present holdings of the company, including the factory at Dearborn, patent rights, and the airport are conservatively estimated to be worth $2,500,000.

Several experimental airplanes were built by the company shortly after Stout

YOUTH ACCEPTS INVITATION TO WASHINGTON

"Lindy" Will Take U. S. Cruiser from Cherbourg for America

DUE IN COUNTRY JUNE 11

Capital Authorities About To Make Plans for Gigantic Welcome

Washington, June 1—Capt. Lindbergh today accepted "with thanks" President Coolidge's offer of the U. S. Cruiser Memphis on which to return to the United States.

The Memphis will pick up the flier at Cherbourg and come straight to Washington, where it is planned that he will be honored by the government on the afternoon of Saturday, June 11.

Captain Lindbergh's acceptance was cabled to the state department by Frederick Sterling, American charge in London, and relayed to the president at the White House. It merely stated that Lindbergh accepted the president's invitation "with thanks" and would arrange the details with Vice Admiral Hurrage, U. S. naval commander in European waters.

Secretary of war Davis, one of the cabinet committee, declined to comment on the irritation caused in New York by the capital's taking the Lindbergh celebration. It was indicated, however, that this phase of the situation had been carefully considered before the cablegram was dispatched to Lindbergh.

Due on June 11

The invitation cabled the transocean flier by the special cabinet committee calls for his embarking on the U. S. Cruiser Memphis at Cherbourg, and a race to get to Washington by June 11. The cabinet committee had in mind only that President Coolidge is due to leave the capital for the Summer White House in South Dakota on June 13, and it was thought desirable that presidential honors should be paid Lindbergh in Washington rather than in the Black Hills. June 11 comes on Saturday, and it is desired, if possible, to hold the ceremonies in the White House grounds on that date, or at least not later than Monday morning.

Apparently the cabinet officers responsible for the shift in plans had not contemplated the resentment of New York municipal officials, who have been engaged for days in preparations for the greatest reception ever given a visitor

Immediately after the announcement of the invitation being cabled Lindbergh, municipal officials here began eleventh hour plans for a reception. Up to that time it had been considered a foregone conclusion that Lindbergh would land in New York; Hence nothing like a municipal reception had been contemplated. Now, however, it is planned to make the day a gala one, with possibly a half holiday for the thousands of government clerks.

Lindbergh probably will find Pennsylvania avenue lined with soldiers to do him honor. Preliminary plans call for his landing at Washington Navy Yard, and a triumphal procession up the historic avenue between lines of troops to the White House where he will receive the distinguished flying crown and probably a colonelcy in the air reserves.

The cruiser Memphis is now at Rotterdam. She is one of the fastest of the newer cruisers, capable of 35 knots an hour. Under forced draught she probably could make New York or Chesapeake Bay in five days from Cherbourg.

LINDBERGH'S LIFE AT FLYING SCHOOL REVEALS HIS ABILITY

A COPY OF THE DRAFT OF 12,755 FRANCS WHICH CAPT. LINDBERGH CARRIED WITH HIM FOR EXPENSES ON HIS SPECTACULAR FLIGHT

Our artist pictures Lindbergh's rickety entrance into flying.

(Miss Bonita Witt, in obtaining this story of Lindbergh's life, not only obtained her information from the mother's lips at her Detroit home, but has supplemented it with facts gotten first-hand from others. This is the sixth of 10 instalments).

THE aviator who crossed from New York to Paris in a single hop didn't always travel with lightning speed.

It was a battered old motorcycle that transported Charles A. Lindbergh from his home at Little Falls, Minn., to Lincoln, Neb., where he received his first flying lessons. A rickety, out-of-date airplane took him to Brooks-Kelly government aviation school at San Antonio, Tex., where he enrolled as a cadet flyer on March 12, 1924. Capt. Eugene Stevens, a classmate of Lindbergh's at San Antonio tells of the arrival of "the Swede," as he was affectionately called by the cadets, at Brooks-Kelly school.

"He came in the most ramshackle 'ship' you ever did see. The wings had no canvas from the center to the tip. 'Swede' flew the plane a few times after he came to school until one day the commandant ordered him to run it off the field and scrap it lest Lindbergh killed while flyin git. But 'Slim' wasn't afraid.

"Right from the first the 'Swede' was the outstanding aviator in the class. He had had many hours in the air when he came to school, so he had an advantage over the rest of us. The very first day we were taken up into the air, Lindbergh was assigned to 'solo' work—that is, flying without an instructor in a single control plane. He had absolutely no fear of the air; in fact, he seemed to like to flirt with danger. He never was reckless—he always was sure of his plane and his ability to control it."

Only a Few Survive

One hundred and five men started in Lindbergh's class and all but 18 were "washed out" (aviation slang, meaning sent home from school) before graduation, March 16, 1924. Lindbergh was rated perhaps the most brilliant man in the class as well as the best flier. His average was one of the highest.

Lindbergh was a good student and an earnest worker, but he liked his good time as well as the other flying cadets. Capt. Stevens tells a tale about "Slim's" dog, Booster, a scrawny white just plain "dog", which he found wandering around the school grounds and adopted, naming it for the starting magneto or "booster." After the dog had been introduced to the other cadets, Lindbergh decided to turn the animal into an expert parachute jumper.

Improvising a parachute, Lindbergh would climb to the top of the Brooks-Kelly dirigible hangar, a hundred or more feet high, and drop the bewildered "Booster." His school comrades still roar with laughter as they recall the sight of the awkward dog, feet widespread, slowly descending to the floor of the hangar.

No "Dates" for "Swede"

When other cadets were "dating" in San Antonio, "Swede" was tinkering about a plane or taking long walks in the country with "Booster." He was a good mixer, popular with his fellow students, but social life in the nearby city didn't appeal to him.

Capt. Stevens says he never can recall a single instance when Lindbergh "dated" with a girl. He wasn't afraid of women or bashful—he just wanted to be a flier and he didn't have time to become acquainted with the fair sex.

Which explains, perhaps, why he "wasted" so little time on girls abroad.

A woman on trial in Oklahoma City for alleged murder was attended in court by sixteen little girls of her Sunday school class.

CRACK LIMITED ON BIG FOUR TO INCREASE SPEED

Will Make Run in 24 Hours Flat; To Cut Schedule 15 Minutes

Starting next Sunday the Southwestern Limited between New York and St. Louis, one of the crack trains of the Big Four, operating through this city, will have 15 minutes cut from its running time and will travel between the two cities in 24 hours flat.

This announcement was made today by the executive offices of the New York Central.

Its departure from New York will be made 15 minutes later or at 5 p. m., instead of 4:45 as at present. The arrival in St. Louis will remain the same, 5 p. m., the following day. No announcement of a time change has yet been received in local offices of that road.

New Flyer

A new all-Pullman flyer between New York and Chicago, to be known as the North Shore Limited, and which will be second in speed only to the Twentieth Century Limited, was announced today by the New York Central. This train will operate between the two cities in 2 hours and 50 minutes and will be handled on the lap from Buffalo to Chicago across Michigan and along the north shore of Lake Erie through Ontario by way of the Michigan Central.

The train derives its name from the lake region through which it passes and will be operated for the first time next Sunday.

Announcement also was made of several changes looking toward the speeding up of passenger service, all of which will be made on the same day.

Fruit Shipments

A special express train of 15 cars loaded with fruit, enroute from Chicago to New York, sped through Marion yesterday over the Erie Railroad.

It was only one of many similar trains which will operate through Marion over the Erie during the summer months. Last year, hundreds of cars of fruit from the Western states were carried via the direct Erie route to Eastern cities, many of them going by special transportation.

Many of the fruit trains are iced in Marion during the trip from the West to the East.

Poultry trains have also been operating in great numbers over the Erie and Big Four this spring.

Circus Advertising

The advertising car of the Hagenback-Wallace circus occupied a siding on the Pennsylvania Railroad near the W. Center-st crossing yesterday afternoon. The Hagenback-Wallace circus will show in Marion within the next two weeks.

Holiday Traffic Heavy

Holiday traffic on railroads and interurbans operating through Marion was reported heavy during the weekend. The excursions were well patronized.

JOHN KURTS IS FOUND GUILTY BY LOCAL JURY

Verdict on Grand Larceny Charge Returned in 17 Minutes; Admits Lies

John Kurts, 25, one of the eight men indicted as members of Marion County's farm robbery band, was found guilty of grand larceny in the common pleas court yesterday afternoon after the jury had deliberated only 17 minutes.

The case went to the jury at 2:58 o'clock and the verdict of guilty was returned at 3:15.

Kurts was convicted following a trial which started at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and after a futile attempt was made by his attorney to prevent his written confession from being introduced as evidence.

Says He Lied

On the stand Kurts declared that he had lied in making the confession.

In the indictment Kurts was charged with having taken part in two robberies, one at the Ernest Jerew farm near Essex on April 29, when 90 chickens were stolen, and the other at the Otis Johnson Farm near Agosta on May 4, when 25 hogs were taken and conveyed in a truck to a stock farm near Waverly, Pike County.

Kurts was tried only for the Johnson robbery. He admitted having been on the truck which carried the hogs to Waverly but asserted that he had been picked up as a passenger while enroute to Columbus.

Kurts is the second of the alleged robber band to be convicted, James Henry having been found guilty last week.

Longfellow Up

W. C. "Shorty" Longfellow went on trial this morning. He is the only one of the eight indicted for the robberies who did not sign a confession.

Several indictments were returned against Longfellow. The one on which his trial is based charges him with participation in the theft of seven sheep from the farm of James B. Guthery on Feb. 17.

Longfellow's attorney is Francis Durbin of Kenton.

Orville Gibson, also one of the farm robbery suspects, will be tried Thursday.

Cecil Holcomb, of Owens, who was arrested as a suspect in the same series of robberies Monday, is being held at the city prison for investigation. Charges may be filed against him within the next few days. With Holcomb's arrest, the list of prisoners rounded up by officers led by Sheriff Deal in the farm robbery investigation has increased to nine.

REV. RAYMOND W. SMILEY ADDRESSES ROTARY CLUB

First Presbyterian Church Pastor Gives Farewell Talk at Luncheon

Some of the things that go to make and some of the things that go to prevent the life of a minister from being an ideal one, were told by Rev. Raymond W. Smiley, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, in a farewell talk at the Rotary Luncheon at Hotel Harding yesterday.

Reverend Smiley, who has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in this city for the last three years, will leave the latter part of next week for Steubenville where he will become the pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of that city.

Chronic complainers, those who grieve when the services are not well attended and who grieve when the attendance is great, are the thorns in the side of the well-meaning minister, according to the pastor. To offset this and to furnish the bright spots are the people who write a letter or tell him in person of the help that they have received from his efforts.

The minister can, depending on his nervous condition, make his place a hard or an easy one, the speaker said. Dead beats who prey on the minister because of his position, were also classed with the "undesirables" by the speaker.

The Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. with approximately 10,000 consumers, is included in the 16 companies in the state which are supplying 92 per cent of all the light and power used in the state, according to the Ohio Utility News published by the public utilities of the state.

There were, at the beginning of the year, 142 manufacturers of electric energy in the state, these were supplying approximately 1,170,638 consumers an increase of 81,462 over the preceding year. Taxes paid by these companies were increased more than 25 per cent last year, according to a compilation made by the Ohio Committee on Public Utility Information.

These reports showed that a total of $10,980,206.12 was paid out in taxes by these companies during the year, this being an increase of more than $2,200,000, over the year before. Extension of service to new customers and an increase in the generating facilities requiring an investment of several million dollars, account for the increase in taxes, according to the Utility News.

Marion's Public Schools Operate on Very Low Cost Scale, Statistics Disclose

Local System Ranks Among Best in State Despite Small Expense, Report Compiled by Ohio State University Bureau of Research Shows

Marion's public school system, which ranks among the best in the state, is operated on an exceptionally low expense scale, according to a tabulation of statistics recently completed by the bureau of research of Ohio State University, copies of which have been distributed to members of the local board of education.

The report, compiled from school, census and tax records of 93 cities, towns and villages in Ohio of less than 100,000 population, ranks Marion as ninth in respect to population but shows that it is much farther down the line in school taxes, school debt, teachers salaries and other features relating to financial support of the city's educational system.

Credited to J. H. Mason

Although the summary is the result of a comprehensive study made by the O. S. U. Bureau of Research, in reality it is credited to Jesse H. Mason, superintendent of the Marion Schools, who conceived the idea and suggested it to the O. S. U. officials.

Population figures are taken from the 1920 census report, and other statistics from last year's school records, which are the latest available.

The various tables provide an interesting and significant comparison between Marion's school statistics and those of other cities in practically the same classification. In the comparisons given below, the city of Mansfield is used where figures on Mansfield are available, due to the fact that in the 1920 census that city and Marion were almost equal in population. Marion standing ninth in the list of 93 cities with 27,891 and Mansfield tenth with 27,824.

Other cities are cited in the comparisons where the tables contain no figures on Mansfield.

Marion ranks forty-seventh in taxable wealth averaged on a per capita basis in relation to the number of pupils in grade schools. Its taxable wealth per pupil is $8,821.52. Mansfield stands twelfth in the rating with $12,849.34. The town of St. Bernard ranks first with $39,827.85 per pupil.

Low Tax Levy

Marion's school tax levy of 8.85 stands fifty-eighth in spite of its low tax valuation. The table does not give the Mansfield rate, but a comparison may be made with Elyria, a city about Marion's size. Elyria is eighteenth on the list with a school levy of 11.227. Xenia has the highest rate with 13.05.

The tables giving salary figures show that Marion is considerably below leadership in respect to the pay received by its teachers.

The schools here rank fifty-eighth in the scale of salaries paid men teachers in the high school. The maximum pay is $1,935 and the minimum $1,485. Mansfield ranks twenty-fourth with a maximum of $2,280 and a minimum of $1,530.

In making up the tables the maximum salary figures were used in establishing the standing of the various communities.

Mansfield Ahead

Mansfield is also far ahead of this city in regard to the pay of high school women teachers. That city ranks eleventh with a minimum of $2,280 and a minimum of $1,330 while Marion is fiftieth with a maximum of $1,800 and a minimum of $1,350.

Marion makes a better showing with its salary scale for junior high school, standing twentieth in the pay of men teachers with a maximum of $1,845 and a minimum of $1,400 and fifteenth in the scale of women teachers the maximum being $1,710 and the minimum $1,260.

The table does not give Mansfield's junior high school pay scale. It shows, however, that the city of Galion is ahead of Marion in the pay of its men teachers, ranking eleventh with a maximum of $2,000 and a minimum of $1,500. Galion is slightly below Marion in its pay scale for the women junior high teachers, standing twentieth with a maximum of $1,600 and a minimum of $1,000.

Elementary Grades

In the elementary grades, Marion's men teachers are paid a maximum of $1,440 and a minimum of $810, placing it twenty-third on the list. Mansfield stands tenth with a maximum of $1,700 and a minimum of $950.

Marion's women teachers in the elementary grades are paid a maximum of $1440 and a minimum of $810 while Mansfield pays a maximum of $1700 and a minimum of $950. These figures rank Mansfield twelfth and Marion thirtieth.

The high school principal in Marion at the time the report was compiled was paid $3,000 a year and the Mansfield principal $3,600. The Mansfield salary stood eleventh on the list and Marion's was the thirty-second.

Grade Principals

Marion's grade school principals are paid a maximum of $1,710 and a minimum of $1,575, placing this city thirty-seventh on the list. Mansfield is far ahead in seventh position with a maximum of $2,700 and minimum of $2,000.

This city also pays its school janitors on an economical scale. The maximum pay is $1,560 and the minimum $1,080. This gives Marion forteth place on the list of cities. Janitors' pay for Mansfield is not quoted but the table shows that Lorain, a city of about the same size, stands twenty-seventh on the list with a maximum of $1,800 and a minimum of $1,540.

CECIL WILCOX IS GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE

A suspended sentence of six months in the workhouse at Dayton, was given Cecil Wilcox by Judge Martin in municipal court late yesterday afternoon when he pleaded guilty to a non-support charge. Wilcox, who was arrested by Humane Officer James Ullom, Saturday night, was released under $500 bond to make up back payments and to pay $8 a week toward the support of the two minor children.

FINNISH FOUR-MASTER WINS RACE TO ENGLAND

Beats Thirteen Wind Jammers Under Guidance of Capt. Claux

Queenstown, June 1—The Finnish four-masted barque Herzogin Cecilie, just arrived at Queenstown, has won the race to the British Isles for which 13 old-time wind-jammers started from various Australian ports during the early part of this year.

Herzogin Cecilie, with a cargo of wheat, took 88 days for the voyage. Captain Reubens D. Claux, her skipper, said they had had a splendid voyage, with fine weather throughout until they reached the Irish Coast.

"Naturally, my crew are proud of Cecilie's achievement," he said. "It is no mean one for a wind-jammer, via Cape Horn, in these days of steam, oil and motor-driven ships."

The other twelve vessels—three German, eight Finnish and one Swedish—are all carrying cargoes of wheat. Only two are fitted with radio.

This is probably the last time that such a fleet of old-time ships under full sail will race across the world.

CONVICTED UNDER SYNDICALISM LAW, GENTLE LITTLE WOMAN AWAITS PRISON

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, Calif., June 1—Unafraid of prison, Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney has been waiting in her seaside cottage here for the mandate to surrender to the state as the final step in a case that has stirred the nation.

Convicted of violating the California criminal syndicalism law, Miss Whitney's only chance—except pardon—of escaping her one-to-14 years' sentence in prison was dashed when the United States Supreme Court upheld the law.

Miss Whitney's conviction was based on her attendance at a meeting of communists in Oakland, where she has been prominent as a social leader and welfare worker.

Takes No Part

The acts for which Miss Whitney was convicted were committed in 1919.

It is characteristic of her that she did not join in a movement on her behalf for a pardon.

She has accepted reference to a prison sentence as a matter of course and has not shrunk at the suggestion of its probability. Miss Whitney received news of the supreme court's decision without emotion. She has had years in which to become accustomed to the idea of a prison sentence.

It has been said she would be one of the most incongruous prisoners ever seen within the walls of a penitentiary.

Face to Face Description

Miss Whitney is a small, meek, timid woman. She is the kind of woman who carefully picks up a spider in her little Carmel cottage and places it gently in the vines that clamber over the windows rather than treat it roughly with a broom. She is so harmless that the suggestion of restraint sounds like a weird joke.

But Miss Whitney has taken the decision of the United States Supreme Court seriously. She often has said that if her conviction were upheld by the higher courts she saw no reason why she should not serve a sentence as others have done. She has claimed no privileges on account of her sex.

"Certainly there is nothing for the individual to offer in opposition to the supreme court of the country," Miss Whitney says.

Miss Charlotta Anita Whitney

"I have always said that I have done no wrong. That is one thing, I believe, that the individual knows for himself. Violation of the law is a question that must be left to the courts."

Miss Whitney will not discuss the merits of the syndicalism law.

It was proposed to the state legislature at the recent session that the law be repealed as one that has become a dead letter, but the move was defeated. Many argued that the only value of the law had disappeared with war-time measures. The law, however, still remains upon the statutes and now is upheld as constitutional.

A year and a half ago, when Miss Whitney learned of the denial of her appeal before the supreme court agreed to reconsider, she was far less composed than she is today. She indulged then in feminine recourse to tears. Now she is as non-resistant as a Tolstoy might wish. She takes rather an impersonal view of her own case.

Miss Whitney's View

"The conviction has been contested largely as a matter of principle," she says. "It makes so little difference what happens to me personally. The interest has been in testing the law and observing its effect. I always have maintained that so long as men were imprisoned for the offense with which I was charged that it would be but just for me to share with them.

"Since I had a better opportunity to protest, that, too, was justified. In fact, it has been more on behalf of friends than for myself that the case has been carried on for so long."

Lives Quietly

Miss Whitney now is past middle age. She lives quietly and has engaged in few activites outside of her simple home life here in the Carmel colony since her conviction. The world might readily picture the syndicalist as an aggressive, oratorical and belligerent individual. Miss Whitney is just the opposite type of person.

She does not want to be interviewed. She does not want to battle on social and economic questions. She is not defiant.

"There is little for me to say under the circumstances," she explained. "I am not engaged in a controversy. I have resisted punishment only upon the ground that I considered myself innocent of any wrong-doing. I sought vindication rather than escape from a penalty. Since this has been denied, I fold my hands and wait."

PAINT HEADQUARTERS

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON CLOSING STARTS JUNE 8

Schedule Postponed Because of Discontinuance of Business Memorial Day

No general closing of business places in observance of the Wednesday afternoon half-holiday, was observed by local merchants today. Partly because of closing on Monday in observance of Memorial Day and partly for the reason that no general closing plan has been decided on by the merchants was the reason for the partial closing, merchants say.

Hardware merchants failed to arrive at any definite plan at a meeting held last week and as the result will not close on Wednesday afternoons this summer. The Wednesday closing is being left to each individual group of business men and no special attempt is being made by the Retail Merchant's Bureau to make the closing general. Banks and building and loan companies were closed this afternoon.

SANFORD PIN FACTORY

Many bowling pins used throughout the United States, as well as virtually all of the candle and duck pins used in New England, where the small pins are most in vogue, are made in one factory in Sanford, Me. The yearly output of the factory includes 10,000 sets of candlepins, 5,000 sets of duckpins and several thousand sets of the big pins. For the candles and ducks half a million feet of lumber is used each year, and for the big pins from 75,000 to 100,000 feet. Altogether nearly 200,000 pins of the different sizes are turned out in twelve months.

RESOURCEFUL SOUL

Here's a sewing hint that may help you out some time:

"I have a dark blue and white dotted, two-piece crepe de chine dress. The skirt has three sets of kick plaits in front. Owing to the present tight styles, the strain incident to sitting down, caused the material to pull apart along the stitching, making the dress look ragged; a most unfortunate fate for a thing so young! As the dress was trimmed with dark blue, I sewed strips of plain silk over the stitched portion, completely covering the rags. The strips are graduated and cut off a little below the point where the plaits fall free. The ends are mitred, giving quite a pleasing effect. I have heard others complain of this same difficulty, so I am passing the above along."

Waits Ten Minutes In Chair For Current That Sleeps While Officers Argue Case

BAIFORD, Fla., June 1—Strapped in the electric chair at the state prison here for fully ten minutes, staring goggle-eyed into eternity, awaiting the death current which never came, Jim Williams, condemned Putnam County negro wife-slayer, is living today, reprieved until Friday, by which time it is expected the question of who is duty-bound to act as executioner will be settled.

The negro, according to authorities, is probably the only slayer in the United States who escaped death by electrocution merely because no one would press the switch.

Sheriff's Deputies W. I. Minton and W. M. Canon of Putnam County refused to act as executioners, declaring the task was not within their duty. J. S. Blitch, superintendent of the prison, declared the duty belonged to the sheriff of the county from which the negro was sentenced. The eleventh hour postponement of the electrocution then was ordered to determine who is duty-bound to act as executioner, after the negro had been strapped in the chair and all was in readiness for the execution.

The same death warrant will cover the execution next Friday, since it calls for the electrocution to be held at any time during the current week.

LINDBERGH GOES TO DERBY

London, June 1—Although there were thousands of cars on the road to Epsom Downs today, Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh was not to be mistaken or lost in the crowd for he travelled in Lord Lonsdale's famous yellow automobile, which made it almost equivalent to making the journey in a circus band-wagon.

Leaving the American Embassy at Prince's Gate at 11:45 o'clock Lonsdale and Lindbergh travelled a triumphant route, with great cheers going up for the American flier and for Lord Lonsdale, who is always a hero and particularly on Derby Day.

Crowds gathered beside the car every time it was held up in the traffic, many wishing to greet the heroic flier, others beseeching Lindbergh and Lord Lonsdale for a tip on the derby. Lindbergh had a tip, it was given him last night, but not being interested in racing he proceeded to forget it and wasn't sure this morning but he thought it was "Hot Night."

Hordes of urchins and gamins followed the car carrying Lord Lonsdale and Lindbergh, putting up the usual Derby Day cry of "pennies for us and good luck for you," while gypsies along the route made the customary demands that their palms be crossed.

ROAST CHICKEN, TURKEY

Dress, clean and stuff the bird. Sew or skewer the skin together over the stuffing in the breast and neck. Rub with salt, flour and dot with butter. Place in a hot oven until brown. Reduce the heat and baste with the juice and fat in the pan. If the chicken is lacking in fat dissolve butter in hot water and use for basting. When the breast meat is tender the chicken is cooked. A five-pound chicken should cook about one and one-half hours and a ten-pound turkey should cook about three hours.

EXPECT LARGE CROWD AT WIMBLEDON MEET

Suzanne Lenglen Is Only Attraction Lacking This Year

London, June 1—Notwithstanding the fact that Suzanne Lenglen will take no part in championship lawn tennis at Wimbledon this year, the meeting promises to be the biggest ever held.

Suzanne is announced to appear in professional matches at Henley, on the River Thames, during the progress of the Wimbledon Tournaments, and the question has been asked whether people will prefer to watch her instead of some of the lesser stars in the lawn tennis firmament.

The opinion among those responsible for the tournament, however, which opens on June 20, is that it is lawn tennis that matters, and not the individual prowess of a great player in a money-making display. A "crash the gate" attendance is therefore confidently expected.

Wimbledon this year will not lack attractive players. Tilden alone will be a big draw, while Molla Mallory, Hunter and Helen Wills, all of whom are expected, will also help to pack the stands to capacity. German players will also appear for the first time, while versatile Lacoste and Brugnon will be present to defend their titles.

Application for season tickets received by the authorities numbered four times those available, and the tickets have now all been disposed of, and disappointed applicants are advertising for tickets in the newspapers.

Marion Man Says New Konjola Medicine Ended All His Health Troubles

A promise of abundant health for thousands of Marion people and deliverance from common ailments was made by the Konjola Man when he came to this city a few weeks ago from unusual successes at Cincinnati, Indianapolis and other large centers. Crowds call throughout each day at the Stump Pharmacy, (Stump and Sams), 121 South Main Street, to hear him explain this compound, and at the same time, many sincere, convincing reports come from local people who were relieved of various forms of stomach, liver and kidney troubles by this advanced medicine.

Mr. O. C. Lucas, a Marion man at the age of 83, living at 183 Fairview Street, this city, made a detailed report of the work of Konjola in his case.

"I was greatly troubled with disordered kidneys," said Mr. Lucas. "This caused me to rise 8 and 10 times a night, which broke up my rest so that I was always weak and stiff in the mornings. My back was achy at all times. Black spots would frequently appear before my eyes and dizzy spells came over me. I was told this was due to liver trouble, and most of the time I had a bad, bitter taste in my mouth. My nerves were pretty bad, owing to all these health troubles, and with no rest at night, I seemed to lose all the strength I had and was nothing more than a shut-in.

"In this condition I began taking Konjola. It turned out to be the medicine I was always needing. ...

Daily Proverb—"Nothing is more annoying than a tardy friend."

"Hat Worn Twenty Years," reads a headline in a morning paper, referring, we assume to Queen Mary's "Old Faithful."

It must require a lot of repression on the part of Europe not to ask Lindbergh: "Are there any more at home like you?"

Since she has left us and there is no danger of giving needless offense, we are frank to say that May proved a bit too lacrymose to appeal strongly to us.

At last Mussolini has gone up against the real thing. Just wait till he attempts to enforce his anti-tipping edict against that great army of dispensers of coin commonly known as American travelers!

There's this to be said for the weather we have been having; it has saved us from a lot of the old "swat-the-fly" stuff customarily inflicted upon a long-suffering people at this season of the year.

The chances are that Lindbergh wouldn't be a bit better known in Paris, Brussels and London than he is today had he used those letters of introduction.

Those ultimatums sent the president by various minority interests seeking to run the country do not appear to interest him greatly. Possibly he recalls those ultimatums we sent Mexico shortly before the World war.

We can understand the purpose of the new California law providing for three days' notice before a marriage license can be issued, but what puzzles us is how the Hollywood crowd will know at any time whom they will want to marry three days later.

We suppose the real reason why Lindbergh isn't going to fly back to America is that he wants to bring his decorations back with him and doesn't dare overload his machine.

Chancellor Clark, of the American university, "lauds the idealism of earlier days," a Washington paper tells us. Isn't it about time for some of these college heads to connect up with the fact that there is more idealism in the world today than ever before in its history?

Gene Tunney is credited with remarking that Lindbergh will be forgotten within a year. Does he hold a New York-Paris flight as no more of an accomplishment than the defeat of a broken-down champion out of training for seven years or is it merely a case of what is somewhat rudely referred to as swelled head?

It's just possible that should President Coolidge every strike a garrulous streak he might inform those who are wondering what to do with another ex-president that there is no immediate occasion for concern along that line.

We note from an advertisement in a Cleveland paper that "palatial steamers" will make three trips daily between Erie, Pennsylvania, and Dover, Ontario, which will not only break the monotony of a motor trip and give Americans outcists a refreshing lake trip of four hours, but also shorten by 125 miles the distance to a drink. Of course, the advertisement makes no reference to the drink, but the tip to the thirsty is so plain that "one running may read."

Germany Coming Back.

Germany announces a six-year road-building program, planning to construct in that period 9,000 miles of hard-surfaced roads. Although it may be done for less over there, at $40,000 a mile this would mean an expenditure of $360,000,000, or slightly over half what we here in the United States are spending annually for the same purpose.

Over here in America we build roads for our own convenience; to advance vehicular carrying of freight and to further travel for business and pleasure alike. In these ways we get return from them. But Germany hopes, and probably will, get return in another way. She looks to improved highways to increase motor tourist travel throughout her domain. Changing her laws and regulations, as she has been and is doing, to make travel in Germany attractive, she hopes that the increased travel thus attracted will more than compensate her for the expenditure she plans.

This is where central and western European lands have an advantage over the United States. Aside from the British, Europeans are not great travelers, and the British are not in comparison with Americans. We do not get appreciable profit from Europeans in this way, but Americans are making European shopkeepers rich.

That the American traveler is appreciated is made evident by Germany's road-building program admittedly as much directed to the luring of alien travelers as the benefit it does to the German people.

The program also is another straw to show that Germany is, beyond all question, coming back. A $360,000,000 road program is not undertaken by a nation which doesn't see a future ahead.

Excavating Herculaneum.

It is a matter of difficulty even to contemplate either the magnitude of the undertaking or what the probable cost of the excavating of Herculaneum, which was officially inaugurated by King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy, two weeks ago, may be. Though destroyed by the same eruption of Vesuvius which buried Pompeii, the situations in which the two cities were left was vastly different. Pompeii was, and what is left of it still is, located upon the top of a high hill. Its destruction was due to a fall of ashes which buried it from twenty-five to thirty feet deep. Following the eruption, property owners dug down and recovered some of their more valuable treasures, evidences of their excavations being still at hand. Again, water filtered through the ashes and destroyed any and all manuscripts which might have escaped the ashes' heat.

On the other hand, Herculaneum, which was lower, was buried beneath a mighty river of hot mud and lava, which solidified and today possesses the hardness of stone. This, together with the fact that it lies buried almost a hundred feet below the towns of Resina and Portici and some of the rich vineyards which produces the far-famed wine, "Lachrymae Christi"—Tears of Christ. While the greater part of the excavations will take the form of immense catacombs, enough of them will extend to the surface to destroy much valuable property, which will thus intensify the cost.

The further excavating of Herculaneum—already several hundred feet of one main street and several side streets have been excavated—before the excavating of Pompeii has been completed, is prompted by the hope of finding important manuscripts by such writers as Livy and Varro and art treasures and other objects which will throw greater light on Roman life back in 79 A. D. The poorer classes of the vicinity lived in Pompeii, the more wealthy in Herculaneum. Hope that manuscripts and other rich treasures may have been preserved in Herculaneum is due to the fact that the wooden window frames in the houses along the streets excavated have been thoroughly preserved and are today just as they were 1848 years ago when buried under the great flow of mud which preceded the lava's flow.

We get this hope from the addresses of Arduino Colasanti, Italian director general of antiques, and Professor Maiuri, who is in charge of the excavations, who explained the exact nature of the finds they expected to make.

"If there is any hope at all," it was said, "of finding the final text of such Latin authorities as Livy and Varro, such hopes rest in Herculaneum alone. Pompeii will never give us any original documents, for the lava which buried it was porous and permitted the infiltration of water. This destroyed any papyri which may have existed. The mud which flowed over Herculaneum became so solidified that it may have preserved some few libraries.

"Previous excavators found in the villa believed to have belonged to Piso Calpurnius almost 2,000 volumes, several hundred of which were sufficiently preserved to be deciphered. It is a pity, however, that Piso was an amateur philosopher, interested only in Epicurean philosophy. All the books found in his villa had some bearing on this subject.

"What we dream of being able to do is to lay hands on the library of some average Roman of medium culture. That would give us a wonderful insight into the Latin literature of that time. It is not impossible that we might even find the text of some Latin popular comedies, which are known to have existed but which have never been found."

And thus the excavators are cutting away at the stone-hard mud and the lava in the hope of throwing more light upon Latin literature and becoming better acquainted with the living conditions by which the higher-class Romans of the first century were surrounded. And, despite the fact that they are using the latest and best American implements and machines especially designed for the purpose, they will be excavating for decades upon decades to come.

Director General Colasanti told what he and his colleque in charge of the excavating expected to find, but the full value of the finds to be made, even though the work be maintained continuously, will probably not be known to any person living upon the face of the earth today. The excavating of Herculaneum is a scientific work, and the true scientist works as devotedly for the generations of the future as those of his own time.

The marked interest of us true aristocrats of the land in the promised new developments of the Ford is due solely to the fear that they may have been adopted to augment its ability to climb trees and telephone poles.

Touched by the appeal of the charming young wife of Jesse L. Livermore, the Wall street trader, that certain articles of jewelery especially valued for sentimental reasons be returned, two unmasked robbers who had entered the Livermore home on Long island gave back to her a $40,000 sapphire ring and a wedding ring costing many thousands, a $25,000 ring belonging to her husband and a $5,000 wrist watch belonging to a woman house guest, the hold-up men contenting themselves with other jewelry worth $90,000. If a charming young woman with an appeal like that ever appears in our neighborhood, we're going to take our dog and move out.

Vagrant Verse.

THE TREES.

And now the trees to eternal life do raise
Their immemorial columns of new green
On those old boughs that wheeling flights of days
And cycling years have seen.
Once more among high, airy pallisades
The birds, sweet feathered spirits, sing again,
Delighted in the fragrant, leafy glades
Safe from the sun and fluting summer rain.

All through the winter came no song, no light,
To these dependents of the summer's breath—
Only the bitter wind, the moonless night,
A season strange as death.
Yet all serenely have they waiting stood,
Content to hide Thy pleasure and Thy word,
Knowing that life would kiss again the wood,
And shall my faith be less than these, O Lord?

HERE COMES THE GROOM.

Labeling Everything in Kitchen.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In your house there should be no unlabeled can or bottle. There should be a label upon every one. Many a serious accident would be avoided if this were the rule.

It isn't safe to trust to the testimony of your eyes or nose. The thing may look right. You may imagine it smells right. Yet you may be mistaken about it after all.

The spice cans, the flavoring bottles, the chemicals and ingredients of the kitchen productions, should be so well marked that no cork need be pulled and no cover removed to find out what it is. Much time will be saved and no mistakes will be made when labeling is the normal practice.

The kitchen shelf should be an orderly spot. The bottles and cans and packages upon it should be in alphabetical or some other known order.

By the way, if that shelf has a gingham ruffle or flounce it, will add to the attractiveness of the kitchen. This is particularly true if it matches the curtains at the windows.

My plea is that the kitchen may be an attractive room, one of the pretty places in the home. Those who toil here should be enlivened and made happier, and healthier in consequence, by a scheme of simple decoration which will appeal to the eye.

The supply pantry should be stored with canned soups, fish, preserves, vegetables, salad dressings and all the things you may need in emergencies. Crackers, cheese, olives and pickles, are other articles which should be on hand.

In this modern age there need be no surprises which are embarrassing. The unexpected company can be given a meal of unexpected excellence. All it needs is foresight to have it so. This may be called domestic preparedness.

The store-room in the basement has its rows of delicious canned fruits all properly labeled and dated. This should be as well kept as the wine room in the palace of a king.

In buying your spices and flavorings buy those of high quality. They can be used, put up in attractive, well labeled packages, ready for your shelf.

To have the kitchen and pantry well ordered, neat and attractive, will add to the joy of housekeeping. The happiness and good-nature of the cook, the composure of the housewife, and the attractiveness of the house will insure the health of the family and its popularity in the community.

There is no doubt that peace of mind has much to do with the physical welfare. To have health and vigor there must be contentment. The suggestions made here will go far toward the well-being of the housewife.

Editorial Comment.

REMEMBER DEWEY.

What, down in our hearts, do we expect of Charles Lindbergh?

Do we expect him to remain the simple, unaffected, bashful boy who has been up to this moment everything our ideal of a hero should be? Do we expect him never to do or say what we might regard as a mistake?

If this is our state of mind we should be making haste to correct it.

In fairness to the boy we must do so. He isn't a creation of fiction, but a flesh and blood young man. And all men make mistakes. Charlie Lindbergh doubtless will make his.

One person alone in the world perhaps, is completely qualified to overlook those mistakes, and that person is a middle-aged school teacher in Detroit—his mother. We can't all be his mother.

For thirty-three and one-half hours he met every test of our ideal of courage. So far he has met every test of our ideal of modesty.

Let us be content, nay, everlastingly grateful for that and ask no more.

More of spiritual uplift from this rare young soul we surely shall receive, but let us not put ourselves in the way of expecting it. For to expect is soon to demand. When demanding, we do not receive we will tear down the idol of our own building.

The tribute of the world to Lindbergh has been a glorious thing. It reflects glory on the millions who have let their emotions run free. Let us keep in mind the why of our emotion, and that is the hazard he took and the triumph he achieved over it. The boy of our acclaim is the boy of those hours over the Atlantic.

Let us ask no more of him, lest, through asking, we lose what he already has given.

Some of us recall the disaster we visited on another great American hero. Let us not repeat the experience of George Dewey.—Columbus Citizen.

WHY TAXES INCREASE.

Demands upon the public treasuries are multiplying at a rate that must be disturbing to every taxpayer who gives a thought now and then to the subject of taxation and notices that this years taxes are usually higher than last year's. They are justified in asking why tax reductions are rarer than tax increases, and where and when the tax grab will end.

The responsibility can not be placed upon those in public office. Those charged with the expenditure of public funds must take what money the public gives them and spend it where the public demands. Politically astute, they are the last to favor a tax raise, ordering one only when the public hue and cry for some civic improvement exceeds in volume that for tax reduction.

For every efficient public official giving serious thought to ways and means of cutting taxes, there are thousands of taxpayers thinking up new ways of spending the taxes they so reluctantly pay. Costly government departments and bureaus are conceived in the minds of patronage hunters, bureaucrats and paternalists. Highways would not be improved, if their users did not demand it. Beautiful, but costly, public buildings would be less common, if those out of office were less insistent that they be erected for the comfort of those in office and the gratification of civic pride.—St. Cloud Times.

The railway line was flooded on account of the heavy rainstorms, and the traveler was obliged to break his journey at a village. He made his way in the pouring rain to an inn, and said to the waiter there: "It is like the Deluge."

"The Deluge. Haven't you read about the Deluge—Noah and the Ark and Mount Ararat?"

"No, sir," said the waiter, "we have had no papers here for three days."

Today's Events.

June, the month of brides and roses, is here again!

Kentucky today observed the 135th anniversary of her statehood.

One hundred and fifty years ago today the British began an invasion of northern New York from Canada.

The English Derby, the greatest turf classic of the world, was renewed today at Epsom Downs, England.

Many of the leading business men of the Dominion assembled in Calgary today for the annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' association.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A religious fanatic, trying to walk on the water, is drowned. When we learn that the universe is operated by natural law and learn to conform to that law we shall be less likely to make fools of ourselves.

If you drive an automobile you have to do more than think for yourself. It is not safe or sufficient to say you will look out for yourself and you will let the other fellow do the same. We need an application of the old principle that we must be willing to go more than half way for other people if we are going to get along.

Children present the most serious problem to motor car drivers. We must be prepared to do all the thinking for children. Kiddies playing in the street must not be expected to think. We have no right to count on it.

A child does not run after a ball in front of your car because he means to do wrong. He is not malicious or consciously careless. He is mostly a creature of instinct and grown-ups must be prepared to do his thinking for him.

A wise man by the name of Hazlitt, a keen watcher of life, once remarked that "you can not expect people to be other than they are."

If you will think that over and say it over whenever you are losing your patience and your temper, you will save yourself a lot of worry and annoyance.

There is not a man or woman in normal life who is not faced with the problem of human relationship. The problem of living with fellow-human beings is an exceedingly serious and difficult one. On the whole it is surprising how well we do it. We shall all do it better when we realize more fully the individual's right to his own personality, his own viewpoint, his own beliefs, his own behavior—so long as that behavior does not interfere with the rights of others.

Facts about farms are encouraging despite the tendency of folks to move to town. Texas, properly irrigated and intensely cultivated, could feed most of the United States. Today we produce enough surplus on our farms to feed an additional 15,000,000. Every year we are producing more with less labor. Science, working through machinery, is doing the job.

From Our Readers.

Spoke Kindly of Doctors.

Editor Star—The bald statement made by a prominent writer in your May 20 issue that "Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy did not care much for doctors . . ." might give your readers quite a mistaken impression of the attitude of the Founder and Leader of the Christian Science movement.

It is only just to Mrs. Eddy to say that although she differed quite fundamentally, both in theory and in practice, with the medical practitioners, nevertheless she was ever respectful and courteous toward them and their profession; and she called upon them on various occasions for certain corroborative information when the circumstances demanded it.

Allow me to quote some of Mrs. Eddy's remarks published in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," which show her attitude toward those of the medical profession:

"Great respect is due the motives and philanthropy of the higher class of physicians. We know that if they understood the Science of Mind-healing, and were in possession of the enlarged power it confers to benefit the race physically and spiritually, they would rejoice with us."—Science and Health, p. 151.

"It is just to say that generally the cultural class of medical practitioners are grand men and women, therefore they are more scientific than are false claimants of Christian Science. But all human systems based on material premises are minus the unction of divine Science. Much yet remains to be said and done before all mankind is saved and all the mental microbes of sin and all diseased thought-germs are exterminated."—Science and Health, p. 164.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 1—Now that jazz has a Will Hays to protect it from reformative restrictions there are indications there will be a swing back to sentimentality. Tunes suggesting hip-wriggling and eye-rolling antics may be frowned upon.

The jazz kings in their selective process will control Tin Pan alley's output. Jazz merchants realized they were facing the public attitude that once faced the movies. It had reached the point where it feared a back-fire from the populace.

It could not depend entirely upon a Roger Wolfe Kahn quitting the counting-room now and then to wield a baton to bolster its respectability. Jazz was not exactly in bad repute but there was the mumble of discontent in the offing.

Jazz was becoming indelibly fixed in public thought with "Black Bottom" slitherings and other sensuous levee contortions. It came out of the Barbary coast honky-tonks via New Orleans brothels. It had a past and its future must be protected.

No innovation, save prohibition, has had such an effect on contemporaneous life in America during the past ten years. It entirely changed the complexion of Broadway night life. It is responsible for the flapper, the cake-eater and other figures in what is called the younger generation.

A jazz band has become an almost necessary fixture in every high-priced revue. The idea swept to Paris and changed Montmartre's district of three tabled cafes into huge halls of syncopation. It changed cafe life in London, Constantinople and Shanghai. It swept the world.

The maestros realized hot tunes might go too far and they are going to curb its atmosphere of abandonment. Just as jazz has outgrown its skillets and cowbells it now proposes to outgrow its weird, plaintive notes and take on a respectful manner of subdued symphonics.

* * *

Jazz cabarets have turned out a large number of performers who are now being featured in Broadway musical revues. Most of them have slight speaking parts and in many instances stop the show.

* * *

I do not think these performers show especial talents. Audiences display warming sympathy toward them because they have managed to leave the dives for a better atmosphere.

* * *

One recently displayed an amusing touch. Appearing before a gorgeous velvet drop in a striking costume to do a bit of tap dancing, she carried a placard reading: "No pitched coins, please." She had been accustomed to concluding her dance in a shower of change.

In a side street a few steps from Third avenue the other late afternoon an itinerant preacher mounted his portable stand, opened his Bible and began reading from Acts. Save for myself and two children who had dropped their toys to gape he had no audience. He continued to read and closing his book began to preach. The children went back to their play. Several passersby idled a moment before him and went on. Inspired solely by sympathy, I remained until he had finished when he bowed his thanks gravely, picked up his portable stand and moved away. Nothing I ever witnessed struck me so overwhelmingly disheartening.

The East Side has many pale pastors who dole out spiritual tonic to anaemic souls. They rarely ask anything except to be heard. Some of them work during the day and go out along the highways to preach at night. A few wear hair to their shoulders and go barefoot.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

GUTZON BORGLUM.

Gutzon Borglum was born in Idaho, March 25, 1867. He went to Paris in 1890 and studied in the Julian academy and the Ecole des Beaux Arts. He has had many successful exhibitions in the United States and abroad. Borglum has executed many famous statues and groups in the United States and is the sculptor who designed and began the Confederate memorial on the face of Stone mountain, in Georgia. He is a non-partisan leader in politics.

Borglum has a new plan for Mississippi flood control. It is this:

"America little realizes that a strip from 800 to 1,000 miles in width, from Canada in the north to Texas in the south, east of the Rocky mountains, drains into the Mississippi.

"Texas has 260,000 square miles of mostly arid land. A section of this the size of New York state lies in what is called the citrus belt. All of Texas needs more water. All of its rivers rise within the state and flow into the Gulf, and, therefore, take no part in checking the Mississippi or flooding New Orleans.

"Many of her river beds are quite dry through a large period of the year, and all of them should carry more water. Water impounded in Texas and delivered upon the farmlands adds $100 an acre to that land, and most of the 260,000 square miles of Texas land is as good as Eastern Nebraska or Iowa for farming purposes.

"The following idea has occurred to me recently and I have made it known through one public address: Tap the flood waters which flow into the Mississippi valley from the eastern Rocky mountain watershed, starting at such points as will insure the greatest amount of drainage and deliver the water to the most necessary points, traveling south.

"The important matter is to cut the great arteries, beginning with the Missouri, carry the great canal south across the Platte, the Kansas, Arkansas and Red rivers. This process could prevent all flood waters west of, let us say, longitude ninety-seven from ever going into the Mississippi and could be so effective that the little water that would enter the rivers east of the great canal would be of no importance. At other times the great gates would automatically allow the streams to continue their natural flow."

or cited as his reason for he bill, among others, the al-hat "corrupt political bosses had so loaded the measure with amendments that they felt sure it would be vetoed."

Highly-Geared Machine

"As it stands," he declared, "it is a machine highly-geared for corrupt political use."

The veto message charged that the bill deprived women of equal representation on state central political committees, by repealing the Waitt-Ott Bill; that it required candidates for state offices to obtain signatures of one per cent of voters at the preceding state election, which was "too stringent," that the bill required three registration periods, one of the night before election, thus preventing proper check on late registrants and encouraging the voting of "floaters," that election board clerks were given too much power; that salaries of election officials were so fixed as to discriminate against smaller communities; and that the basis of organization of precincts was the vote in 1926 which was much smaller than the 1924 vote thus preventing many voters from obtaining ballots, through the provision for printing only 10 per cent more ballots than the number of votes cast in the 1926 election.

BEHIND THE SCREEN

Here is a newcomer to the screen's handsome heroes in the person of Barry Norton. He hails from Argentina and is making good in films. The last picture, "The Heart of Salome," in which he appears opposite Alma Rubens, gives him a splendid chance to display his talents.

HOLLYWOOD has suddenly become aware of a new peril that threatens its very foundations. A dangerous shortage of genuine dyed-in-the-wool villains is at hand. And villains are an indispensable element in the movies, else what chance would a hero have?

The fact is that a veritable panic has swept the camps of motion picture producers with the realization that the screen's most merciless and hard-hearted scoundrels suddenly have tired of entertaining their audiences by killing off their victims and now have taken it into their heads to make people laugh by their funny stunts. One hardly thinks their audiences object to this, after having seen Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, first to desert villainy, in such pictures as "Behind the Front" and "We're in the Navy Now."

And Noah Beery, who was the most vicious of all villains as Sergeant Lejaune in "Beau Geste," and who, it seemed, was slated forever for screen villainy, is, too, displaying a bent for comedy and does his part uproariously in his next pictures, "The Rough Riders" and "Evening Clothes."

If things proceed in this direction, it seems that there will be nothing left for movie producers to do but to let these boys have their way and put such men as Buster Keaton, Harry Langdon, Harold Lloyd, Charlie Chaplin and Larry Semon on this hard-hearted, bloodcurdling stuff.

Having finished "The Seventh Heaven," Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are being cast in "The Escape," a screen version of the celebrated drama.

"Dolores Del Rio," the much discussed "discovery," is being featured in many pictures, the last addition being "My Wife's Honor."

Metro-Goldwyn is working on a screen version of "The Wandering Jew," as a starring vehicle for Lon Chaney.

As soon as Lillian Gish's picture, "The Wind," is completed, she is to begin work on "The Enemy."

Norma Shearer and Avonne Taylor will be co-starred in "After Midnight."

Etiquette raps the reaching fingers of human nature.

Misses Esther Topliff, Mary Dale Bacon and Margaret Jack were appointed nominating committee. Results in a membership contest proved a tie and it was decided that the two sides should join in entertaining and hold a picnic at Garfield Park June 23.

There ought to be enough diversification of crops so that when one is extraordinarily heavy it can be saved instead of dumped in the river to raise prices.

When you are short and very stout do not wear a bright blue dress. It accents your embonpoint.

Garden Frock

Nothing could be more appropriate or charming for the garden party or lawn fete than this frock of printed chiffon in flowered design and gay coloring.

It is worth over while silk, and a general ambiguousness of outline characterizes it. It is loose sleeves and a blousal effect which apparently is effected by the sash of self material which ties in front.

A large hair hat, very simply trimmed, is worn as a part of this costume.

Fringe is not only trimming evening dresses, but it is used on afternoon frocks as well.

Forest Lawn Orchestra Gives Benefit Entertainment

Approximately $15 was raised in a benefit entertainment given by members of the Kitchen Kabinet Orkestra before a fair crowd last night at Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church. The proceeds were turned over to the Ladies' Aid Society to be added to the church building fund.

Other numbers on the program were selections by a male quartet composed of W. B. Long, Frank O'Dowd, Edward Walker and William Roberts, and two "song-a-logue" numbers by Carmi Church.

There will be a short program.

For Beauty's Sake

Do this to whiten teeth

Here are the best ways men have learned to beautify the teeth, to sweeten the breath, and to insure a delightful morning taste.

They are all in one tooth paste, on which some 50 experts have collaborated. Their object has been to combine in Phillips' Dental Magnesia, every modern dental requirement.

You should learn what it does to add beauty and charm. The quick results will amaze and delight you.

The basis is magnesia. Not ordinary magnesia, but Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in concentrated form. Dentists have advised this for 50 years for daily application to the teeth.

Magnesia neutralizes acids, the chief foes of teeth and gums. In this form it penetrates between the teeth, where those acids form. It kills them as they form. You need have no fear of acids when you apply this alkali—magnesia—twice a day. You will never go to sleep without it when you know.

But learn the many delightful effects. See how this tooth paste beautifies the teeth. Learn how it purifies your breath, creates a pleasant taste in your mouth. Here in one tooth paste you can combine all the best helps science knows. You should do that—do it now. You will never again depend on a dentifrice which brings but a single result. Please try this modern tooth paste.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

-ENTLY, sitting silently, only eyes moving, he saw a shadow he watched, it took shape—be- huge, broad figure walking for- ftly, naked blade beginning to where it protruded from the s into the moonlight. Larry right hand curling around his tic, which he loosened for easy

The figure came on, then in the ring of moonlight and bout. Larry could see the fel- yes searching, then the man's inted directly toward him. ntruder evidently believed Lar- p for, since the silent watcher the tree did not move and ithout a doubt, was dead to the there could have been only that on drawn. Larry watched the urn and motion with his free then another figure emerged e gloom, joining the first. d no way of defining of a sure- motive behind this visit, but he d that here was a pair from p of the Marabout of Adrar, e headquarters of the man name appeared on the death warrant he carried beneath his burnouse. The pair advanced stealthily, swords poised, across the patch of moonlight, headed straight for Larry and his sleeping companion. Larry shifted his heavy automatic and spoke:

"In Allah's name, why come you so quietly here, and why at this hour?"

Startled, the others paused, then at a word from the leader they advanced swiftly, blades going up and making flaming area of fire in the beams of the glorious moon. Without doubt an attack was imminent and Larry meditated rapidly on what he should do.

To use his automatic would undoubtedly betray their position to any watchers below; in all probability would summon assistance to this murderous pair just as surely as if they were to lift their voices and call. He resolved on the instant to meet steel with steel, knowing that few in all the land of the Moor's could match his skill at swordplay; for he had been taught the use of the swinging blade by some of the greatest masters of France and Spain—taught during those reckless years of earlier youth when adventure had called him always, and he had always responded.

Now, with Beni Ahmed's splendid long silver of steel in his hand, he rose swiftly, and rising he kicked Allal Abdi gently with his foot. The youth awoke on the instant, uncurled, and reached his feet, his slender sword gleaming beside the blade Larry was lifting to a position of guard. Larry maneuvered until he faced the larger of the two attackers, although he knew this might not mean anything, for it was possible that the smaller man was the better swordsman. But of that, he would, of course, know later.

In another instant the four blades clashed and the heavy breathing of their opponents told Larry that here was a pair bent on slaying them with silent swiftness.

Larry felt little fear for himself. The brilliant moon afforded enough light to make trick swordplay distinguishable, and he felt that he could hold his own at this sort of game with the best that Morocco could produce; aye, that he could more than hold his own. As he felt the strength of the other's wrist and tested the suppleness of his arm, his thoughts were all of Allal Abdi, wondering whether that slim beardless youth could possibly stand up under the savage attack his opponent was launching on him.

The ring of metal against metal sounded musically in the moonlight, and rapidly shifting feet quickly beat down the tall grass that carpeted the earth. Larry, taking the beat of a full stroke fairly on his blade, sighed with relief, for he had taken the best the other could give, and Beni's sword had stood up under the test without doing other than bend, as a truly good sword does under such circumstances. Now, shifting from guard to attack, Larry went into action in earnest and his long, gleaming blade fairly slithered through the slanting rays of the moon. Round and round he drove his opponent, giving him no breathing space, launching attack after attack that soon had the fellow grunting and his breath coming in whistling gasps.

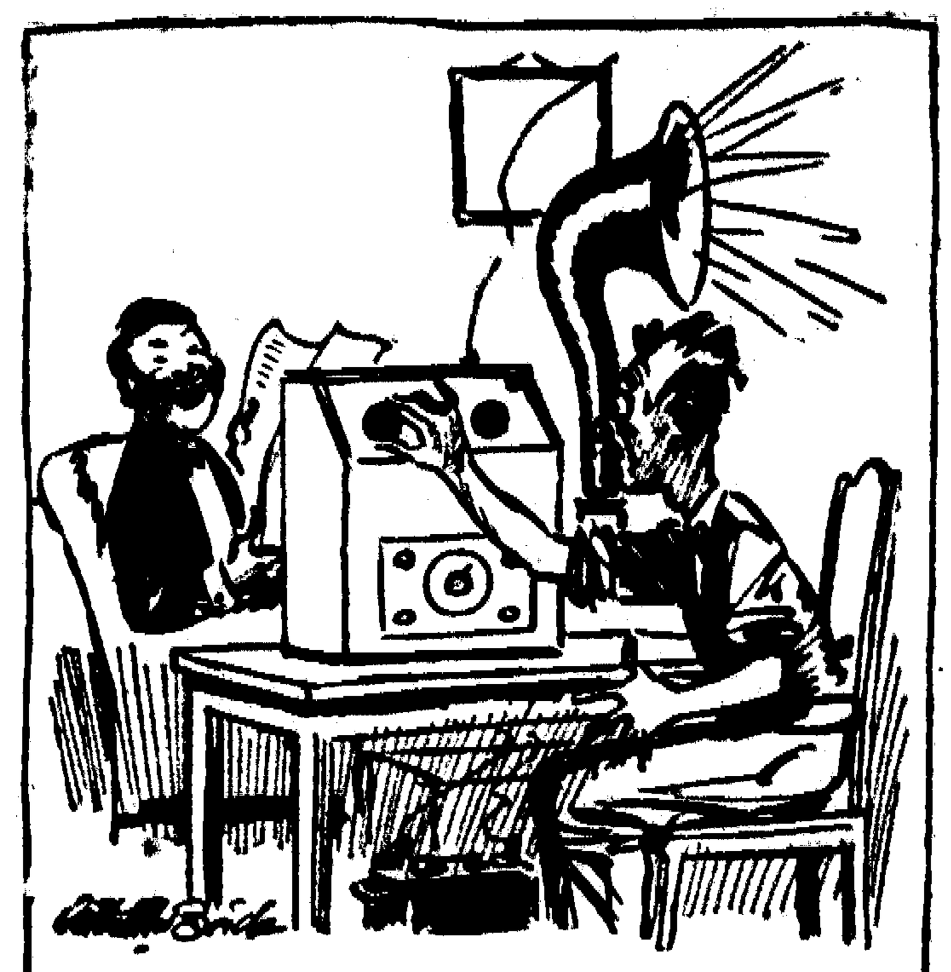

"By Allah," he heard the other breathe, "it is true, then, that you are the wizard I suspected as much, but there was one who said otherwise; who said you were an imposter. Man nor devil could stand before such infernal swordplay. But as to that, it is as Allah wills."

Larry's sword continued to make flaming arcs before the other, and now he was getting past the fellow's guard, reaching in and pinking him easily with quick, biting touches of the needle-like point that caused the Berber's blood to well slowly in little blotches through his bournouse. He knew that he coould give a finishing stroke at any time now, and the other seemed to realize this, also, for he fought with a grim determination to survive as long as possible, then accept the inevitable stroke of death in silence.

Came a swift rush on Larry's part, then he dropped swiftly to one knee, his head swinging sidewise the while his sword went straight out and up. It was a stroke the greatest fencer in all Spain had taught him, one which could not be guarded against save by swift and certain retreat. It caught the Berber flat-footed, sword raised, guard entirely gone. Larry's sword thrust once, swiftly, then he regained his feet, casting never a glance at his late opponent, knowing that it was unnecessary.

Now he turned his attention to his companion's plight and found it to be a plight, indeed. Evidently the strength of the attacker's arm had proved too much for Allal Abdi, for even as Larry advanced to his aid he saw the youth go down under a double blow, one that was first a flicking stab at the left shoulder, then a round, sound blow with the flat of the sword alongside the head. Larry sensed instinctively that it was the blow on the head which caused Allal Abdi to drop; that the shoulder wound could not be fatal because it seemed to have been purposely made with caution. It was as though the attacker had meant simply to put the youth out of the fighting rather than to kill him.

Artic Exploring Simple, to Hear Bartlett Speak

Too Many Expeditions Carry Too Many "Comforts of Home," He Says

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 1—To hear Capt. Robert Bartlett tell it, an arctic expedition sounds about as dangerous as a stroll in the park on a pleasant April day right here at home.

CAPTAIN BARTLETT

The captain, as everybody knows, was Admiral Peary's sailing master on the admiral's trip to the north pole.

He'd have reached it, too, with Peary, but the latter made him stay behind, a few hours' tramp south of the "big nail."

• • •

THAT wasn't Bartlett's first visit to the realm of Boreas, however—not by any means.

Indeed, Peary picked him out because, nearly all his life, he'd been sailing polar seas, dodging icebergs, living on tallow candles and associating with Eskimos.

Bob doesn't seem to consider himself an explorer.

An explorer plunges off into the frozen north with a loud hoo-raw, a lot of newspaper comment and a radio outfit, and then comes back and lectures about it, as a cross between a scientist and the hero of a wonderful adventure.

Bartlett refers to the arctic regions as a mechanic does to the garage he works in.

• • •

THE cap is a rather short man, with a chunky, powerful figure and a deep sea roll in his gait. He has a ruddy face, a cheerful grin and a strong Nova Scotia accent.

In appearance and manner he's a typical shipmaster—or mate, maybe.

Where he keeps himself between times I've no idea, but about twice a year he shows up in Washington and spends a week or so visiting around with the Coast Guard, the Navy Department crowd and the folks at National Geographic Society headquarters.

• • •

HE'S a mighty welcome caller, too, for he's a mine of information, but I'm convinced he doesn't realize it.

Modesty's a fault with him—for his own good, a fatal one.

To illustrate:

His friends think it was a blamed mean trick in Peary to leave him behind when he was so near the north pole. Bartlett contends it was perfectly natural. He admits it hurt him dreadfully, but he evidently believes it was just the right thing for the admiral to do. He swears by Peary.

• • •

ONE day, when he was describing how easy arctic travel is, I said, "Yes, but a whole slew of explorers actually have lost their lives on these expeditions."

"That's so," agreed the cap, as if he'd never thought of it before, "but they didn't need to.

"You see, most expeditions start with so much equipment that it kills 'em dragging it along. You've got to travel light in the arctic.

"A party like you're talking about treks all day and works all night, setting up tents and making everything comfy, and then treks all day and works all night again, until finally, some evening, when they try to pitch camp as usual, they're so fagged out they simply can't do it.

"They fall right down and die, with all the comforts of home piled up, unpacked around 'em."

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

A STRANGE ADVENTURE

I REALIZED two things as Katie triumphantly announced her discoveries concerning the red-haired and red-bearded man who with an even more disreputable-looking companion had taken the Grimsey shack back of the farm. One was that it was not safe to give my little maid any direction which afforded her any latitude of action—she was altogether too likely to interpret it in the weirdest fashion. The other was that if I listened to her, I virtually should be spying upon Dicky's visit to our mysterious neighbors.

My first instinct was to stop her revelations at once and send her back to her room. But the remembrance of Dicky's laughter-filled eyes when he came back from the shack, and his air of enjoying a joke which he did not mean to share, bolstered my argument to myself that after all his visit had been no affair of his own, but one which concerned me as well. He had gone simply to find out for himself and me what danger, if any, there was for Junior in the proximity of the men to the farm. I could have gone with him had I insisted. Therefore, there was no reason for me not to listen to my little maid's story except the fact that by so doing I should condone her eaves-dropping.

But Katie would no more realize that I was condoning it than she could understand that her action was reprehensible. I had told her to find out what she could about the red-bearded man when we had had a visit from that mysterious individual. She had interpreted the mandate literally and had brought me the fruits of her quest as innocently and eagerly as a friendly puppy would deposit a cherished old shoe at the feet of his mistress.

So stifling a few stray qualms which persisted in raising their heads, I smiled at her excitement.

"Tell me about it, Katie," I said encouragingly, "but slowly, so I can understand what this is all about. Where did you see this man?"

"Oop by wood dere side of Meester Grimsey's shack," Katie responded, promptly. "You know vot fine greens grow oop dere, dose curly dock, so in afternoon ven my work all done und my dinner all feexed ready pop on, I think me I go oop dere und get mess of greens. Nobody could see me. I vos in dot nice grass place between bushes und place vere vood lot begins—you know."

I nodded, heroically repressing a comprehending grin. It was only too transparent—the manner in which Katie had concealed herself in a spot which commanded the path between the farmhouse and the shack, and waited for developments.

"Maybe five, ten meenits, I see dot red-bearded bird coom down path from shack, looking all round everyvere as eef he expected see somebody. Den he seet down on dot beeg stone—you know in needle of grass mit leetle trees in ring."

I nodded again. Indeed I knew the place very well. A circle of small locust trees enclosed a grassy place in the center of which was a huge boulder. Often I had sat upon it while Junior played in the pretty and sheltered place. And I realized that it was an ideal place for a meeting place which was not meant to be observed.

"You see," Katie went on grinning, "I not so far avay und I could see troo bushes, but you bet I keep still as leetle cat vaiting for mouse, und pretty soon, I see Meester Graham coom along swinging dot steeck about as eef he out for valk. But you know vot I teenk?" She put her eager face close to mine.

"No, Katie, I haven't the slightest idea." I assured her truthfully.

"I teenk Meester Graham expect see dot man und I tink mans expect see Meester Graham."

"What makes you think so?" I asked, realizing that my little maid's sense of the dramatic must be fed by questions.

"Because," she replied, "ven Meester Graham get inside dot ring of trees, dot red-bearded man joomp oop. Den he trow heemself down, knock hees head tree times against ground, und he say, Praise Al'—somebody. I couldn't catch last name, 'Praise Al Al be praised.'"

NO WOMAN CAN KEEP HOUSE EFFICIENTLY Without Good Health

MRS. FRANK DINDORE
BOX 239, LANCASTER, OHIO

Four Walls Can Make a House, but it takes a Woman to Make a Home

To be a successful homemaker, a woman must guard her health. When mother is not well, the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as these women did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lancaster, Ohio.—"For ten years after my marriage, I had poor health. I was on a visit to my sister in Utica, Michigan, and she had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Her husband got me a bottle and I took it and felt so much better that I got a second one. Now, whenever I feel run-down I take the Vegetable Compound and soon feel all right again. I have had three little girls in the last six years and do all my housework, sewing, washing, and ironing. My time is pretty well taken up, but I will answer any letters I receive."—Mrs. Frank Dindore, Box 239, Lancaster, Ohio.

Sturgis, Michigan.—"I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and have recommended it to others. I took it to give me strength before my baby was born. I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work, and when my baby was born my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest birth she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial."—Mrs. Howard [illegible], 614 Sturgis Ave., Sturgis, Michigan.

LARGE TRUCK CONVEYS FISH TO MT. GILEAD

Greater Part of Morrow County's 1927 Consignment Is Received

Mt. Gilead, June 1—A large truck carrying 5,000 fish to be distributed throughout Morrow County arrived in Mt. Gilead yesterday. This constitutes the greater part of this year's consignment of fish to this county.

In addition to the problem of securing ideal breeding places for fish, the problem of transporting mature fish to different waters throughout the state offer quite a problem. The idea of planting mature fish in state waters originated about 15 years ago according to Charles V. Truax, director of agriculture.

Formerly one truck furnished conveyance for fish but now two new trucks have been purchased which embody up-to-date features as a storage tank and an aerating system. These trucks deliver fish from Sandusky, Lake Rockwell, and other state hatcheries.

The aim of Director Truax in securing the purchase of this equipment is to assure a yearly equipment of fish to each county in Ohio in order that the license purchaser may receive the benefits. When the truck load of fish arrives at each county, it is received by a committee which distributes the fish among the county streams and lakes. These committees are composed of members of the Izaak Walton League, luncheon clubs, farm bureaus, granges, and deputy game protectors.

At a recent fish and game supper held in the Presbyterian church at which Director Truax was a speaker, it was suggested that Magnetic Springs, a resort about one-half mile east of Mt. Gilead, be converted into a fish hatchery and Director Truax spoke favorably of the plan. However, as yet, nothing has resulted from the matter although many local enthusiasts are encouraging it.

160 MASONS PRESENT AT SUNRISE SERVICE

Marysville, June 1—Over 160 Masons were in attendance at the annual sunrise memorial service given by the Marysville Lodge No. 158 F. and A. M. Many visitors were present representing Kenton, Marion, Bellefontaine and other neighboring towns.

Following the breakfast there was a memorial service for six of the members of the local lodge who have passed away in the last year. Following a number of candidates were initiated with Masons who were Spanish-American War veterans in charge of the work.

He claims he has sold all property, and the money remaining after paying all bills amounts to $1,464.32 which is to be divided among the defendants according to the will of Mary Eccles. He does not feel safe in distributing the money without the advice of the court for which he asks. H. H. Harlan is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Three First League Teams Still Tied for Loop Lead; Central Christians Win

Calvary No. 1, Wesley M. E. and Epworth No. 1 Are Winners; Presbyterians Are Victims of Christians' Attack; Epworth Seniors and Forest Lawn Lose

CALVARY No. 1, Wesley M. E., and Epworth No. 1 continued their rampage through the First Sunday School League last night and turned in more victories while keeping their respective records clear of defeats. The trio is tied for first place, the first two having won three games each and the latter only two contests.

Central Christians bit their stride last night and romped over the Presbyterians at Central Junior High, turning in to 6 to 4 win. It was the first victory of the season for the Christians but throws them into a second-place tie with the Presbyterians and St. Mary's.

Rank, pitching for the Christians, allowed only six hits while his teammates were receiving nine to win the contest. Every man on the Christian crew with the exception of two was credited with a hit.

Stage Rally

With the score standing 4 to 3 against them the Christians staged a rally in the first of the seventh to score three runs and win the battle. Mayer and Amick led at bat with two hits each for the winners. McAninch and Torrence were the losing batteries.

Calvary No. 1 strengthened its hold on first place at the expense of the Epworth Seniors, winning 4 to 3. It was a pitchers' battle between Gruber and Rice, the former being the winner. Each allowed five hits and each team made five errors. Calvary had the game won 4 to 0 until the sixth frame when the Epworth team crossed the plate three times and threatened to take the game.

Rice struck out three men while Gruber downed four. Rice walked two and Gruber walked three.

Epworth and Wesley

Epworth No. 1 and Wesley M. E. kept up their pace by handing defeats to Forest Lawn and St. Mary's respectively last night. Epworth won 5 to 2 and Wesley landed on top of a 3 to 1 count.

Miller and Virden were the winning batteries in the Epworth fray while Bush and Trowbridge were victorious in the Wesley tilt. Burnett and Brown acted as Forest Lawn batteries and Fredricks and McDonough held those positions for St. Mary's.

Only two box scores were received.

George Souders, young engineer of Lafayette, Ind., is the "Lindbergh" of the auto racing world. He collects a total of $30,000 for the feat and automatically breaks into the front ranks of the auto drivers. Photo shows the cars skimming around the track. Inset is Souders.

COMMISSION TO MEET AT Y. M. C. A. TONIGHT

Many Important Matters To Be Considered by Board of Control

The city recreational ball commission will meet at 7:30, tonight, at the Y. M. C. A. The conference has been called by John H. Clark, president of the commission.

It will be the third meeting of that group this season and promises to be the busiest. All questions which have arisen since the opening of the leagues will be up for discussion, including eligibility rules and the like.

One of the greatest matters to be taken up by the commission is the only protest filed so far this season. Frank Thomas of the Osgood team, is the manager to present the protest, the game in question being the Friendsgood clash last week. A ball batted by an Osgood player struck the umpire, the ball was scooped up by the Erie shortstop and the Osgood man was caught at first.

The Osgood manager claims that he was entitled to first base according to rule 23 which reads "The base runner shall be entitled without being put out, to take one base if the ball, on a fair hit strikes the umpire."

The commission also will decide on what brand of balls will be used during the remainder of the season. Spalding, Wilson, and Reach balls have been distributed among the various teams during the season and the commission will inspect each ball to see which has stood the most punishment and still kept its shape.

Several managers have spoken of the doubtful eligibility of players who are said to have been ruled off the teams with which they still are playing. These matters may also be considered tonight.

The commission consists of John Clark, F. O. Rudolph, R. G. Smallwood, T. M. Cunningham, Frank Thomas, George Keller, Francis W. Bacon, Norris Crissinger, E. G. Siefert, Earl Smart, Frank Gibson, Doug Torrence, and Charles H. Isaly.

Babe Ruth Hits Two More; Heads His Record of 1921

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, June 1—George Ruth, alias Herman, who has been as unostentacious as a parson's vest this season, suddenly called attention to the fact today that he has neither changed his name nor left the country. George did it with his little bat during yesterday's double header in Philadelphia where he hit Nos. 15 and 16 of the current campaign, bringing figure Filberta out from cover with glad, shrill cries.

Ruth is ahead of his record schedule for 1921!

In that year, he got his sixteenth on June 3, so that, on the face of things, he has a four day jump on the game. This fact has served to revive the notion that George might better the magic 59 of his greatest year. The writer doesn't think he will.

Good Bet But—

Of course, it is a good bet, either way, but before you start laying your apples on the counter, it might be well to consider the situation, in toto. Ruth is four days ahead of the 1921 schedule but, in this case, we deal not with days but games. He is only one game to the good over 1921, for in that year he hit his sixteenth during the forty-third game of the season while yesterday the Yanks played their forty second.

So much for the games, now for places.

In 1921, the Yankees finished at home and "home" then was the Polo grounds, with the right field foul line running into the stand almost back of first base. George Ruth, alias Herman, made his great finish in 1921 at the Polo grounds. In 1927, he will attempt to make it at the Yankee stadium and George himself will tell you that the two fields are as different as milkweed and orchids.

Leave Polo Grounds

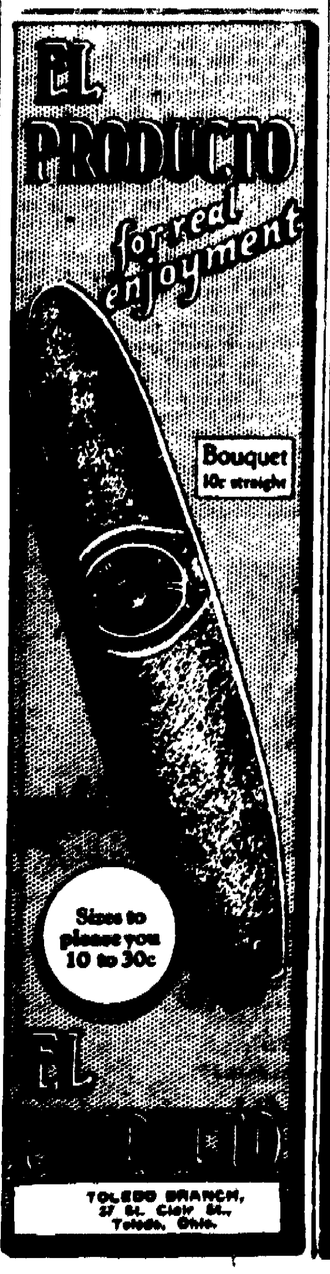

"I almost cried when we had to leave the Pool grounds," he told the writer in all seriousness recently. "It meant that, in order to break the record, I would have to be so much better than I was in 1921 that I hardly stood a chance. However, I'll be in there trying."

And to give the boy friend his due, he is. Otherwise, his mark wouldn't be where it is today.

Reducing his chances to figures, he has exactly 112 games in which to hit 41 home runs or it will be "no dice." This means that he must average slightly worse than one homer in every 2½ games, which of course is what he did in 1921 from June 1 onward.

So far this season, he has hit at least one ball out of the park on every field in the circuit. But his average at the stadium has been less, and probably will continue, than in several other cities along the trail. Therefore, with 60 of the remaining 112 games to be played at home, Ruth's effort must be heroic.

He may succeed, for anything is possible with that hombre in there taking his swing. But the law of averages is against him.

Lutherans Running Wild in Second Church Group; Baptists Again Winners

Lutherans Defeat Presbyterians for Fourth Consecutive Victory, While Baptists Take Third Win from First Reformed; Lee-st Presbyterians Win

THE Lutherans are running wild in the second Sunday School recreational ball league. They won their fourth game last night and no other team in the loop has even played more than three. Presbyterian No. 2 was the victim, taking the tail end of a 5 to 4 count.

Trinity Baptists are the only other team undefeated in the second league. They have won three contests, taking the third last night from the First Reformed nine. The final score was 7 to 1.

Lee-st Presbyterians ran wild against Calvary No. 2 for a 14 to 0 shutout and incidentally landed in full possession of second place. United Brethren won its first game of the season, stepping on Epworth No. 2 for a 3 to 2 victory.

Kochensberger pitched the Lutherans to their fourth victory last night, while his teammates were hitting consistently. Walker was the losing Presbyterian hurler.

Zuspan twirled for the United Brethren as they won their first contest. Epworth No. 2 did not score until the last inning and then threatened to take the game by counting two runs. Evans was the losing pitcher.

With Jones on the mound, Trinity Baptists had little trouble with First Reformed. Weckmueller pitched for the losers.

The Lutherans will not participate in any of the postponed affairs tonight. They trimmed the First Reformed before the end of the fifth inning a few weeks ago in the rain, while the others were compelled to call off their games. Trinity Baptists are expected to have little trouble with Epworth No. 2 and as a result will probably be tied for first place with four victories Thursday.

No box scores were turned in.

"Hello, what's this? Say, Cutie, it looks like a piece of meat."

Cutie trotted around and stared up at the object. Then he began to tremble all over.

"It is a piece of meat," muttered he, "and I want it so badly that my mouth waters."

"Then why don't you go and get it?" The Boy was puzzled.

"Great Brush-tails, but you are stupid, Boy! Why, don't I go and get it, indeed! Don't you see that trap set just beneath it? I should get caught in it while trying to get the bait and I should dangle in the air maybe for hours and hours, until my poor body could stand the pain no longer. That kind of a trap has no mercy. It hurts a Fox just as much as it can, and only once in a coon's age does its victim escape. No, not even for that nice, fresh meat will I take such chances. But I shall—I certainly shall if I stay around her. I must run away from temptation. See you tonight at the barnyard gate."

TREND OF STOCK PRICES CONTINUES UPWARD

No Serious Challenge Presented to Sweeping Advance of Rail Shares

New York, June 1—With few exceptions the movement of stock prices was distinctly upward today, with little or no change in the character of the leadership of the market. No serious challenge has yet been presented to the sweeping advance of the railroad stocks, and the ticker tape told the story of an insistent demand for railroad shares at price advances of from 10 to 60 points.

New peak prices were established in a wide range of railroad and specialty stocks, the former group including a number of well known stocks which flashed across the speculative sky a few months ago. Lehigh Valley, for example, after a month or so of comparative obscurity, jumped into the limelight with an advance which topped its best previous records. Central Railroad of New Jersey, skipping along 2 to 4 points between sales, pushed its market valuation above 340.

The Nickel Plate and the southwestern-merger groups, embracing about six active stocks in all, gave another demonstration of their strength and popularity, in a buying movement which added 2 to 5 points to their market values. Wabash & Western Maryland were not far behind in the procession, while New Haven & Great Northern stood out conspicuously for activity and buoyancy.

SULLIVAN-CORBETT MATCH

James J. Corbett never fought for as large a purse after becoming champion as he did in the bout when he won the title from John L. Sullivan at New Orleans in 1892. The purse and stake in the Sullivan-Corbett match totalled $40,000.

Duties would not be so irksome if one could perform them all in a lump early in the morning and get them out of the way.

IMPROVEMENT OF TWO STREETS STARTED HERE

Molloy & Seckle Begin Work on Madison-av and Fairground-st

Work of placing the top surfacing on Madison-av and the east end of Fairground-st, which are being improved by the county, was started today by the contracting firm of Molloy & Seckle.

Provided weather conditions are favorable, the improvement will be completed and the streets opened to traffic in about 30 days, County Surveyor Leavens stated today.

The improvement will provide an urgently needed hard-surfaced thoroughfare from Center-st near the east corporation line north to Fairground-st over Madison-av.

The roadway is to be of waterbound macadam ,14 feet in width over the entire length of Madison-av and on Fairground-st between the eastern terminus of the paving on that thoroughfare and Madison-av.

At the present time, Greenwood-st is the only improved thoroughfare extending from Center-st to Fairground-st east of the up-town business district.

Opening of Madison-av will not only be of pronounced value from a commercial standpoint but will add greatly to the convenience and pleasure of motorists when making a tour of the city.

Construction of the improvement was started last fall by Molloy & Seckle.

SUPPLEMENTAL PETITION FILED BY LOCAL BANK

Marion Savings Bank Co. Sets Up Claim for $4,374.27 in Foreclosure Suit

A supplemental petition was filed by the Marion Savings Bank Co. today in its suit against Cora Iler, George E. Iler and John Mahaffey, setting up a claim for $4,374.27 as the balance claimed due on a mortgage foreclosure.

The mortgage, amounting to $7,870.53, was against the Iler farm in Richland township, sold recently by the sheriff under court order. After all court costs and other expenses were paid, proceeds of the sale were applied to the mortgage, leaving $4,371.27 still due, the petition states.

It is alleged that George E. Iler transferred three properties in the city of Marion to his wife, Cora Iler, for the purpose of defrauding creditors. The plaintiff company asks that the deeds be set aside and the three properties sold to satisfy the creditors' claims.

The bank is represented by the law firm of Donithen & Donithen.

HOOVER

Now Offers Two Great Values

Of course there is no cleaner on the market like the now-famous Hoover Model 700. Its new principle, "Positive Agitation," has completely changed all previous conceptions of rug cleanliness, by getting in ordinary cleaning time 131% more dirt than even the former celebrated Hoover model.

Now we are showing, in addition to this unrivaled cleaner, a popular-priced Hoover with the same "Positive Agitation" feature that is offered in The Greater Hoover.

You can take your choice. Both are unequaled values. We will gladly demonstrate either or both, any day you say, on your own rugs. Or come in and let us explain to you the amazing difference between these two Hoovers and an ordinary vacuum cleaner. The Hoover is easy to own; a small deposit and a few easy monthly payments make it yours.

Liberal allowance for your old cleaner. Ask us for a free appraisal.

R. T. LEWIS CO. TO OPEN ELM HEIGHTS ADDITION

Engineer Stars Surveying New 19-Acre Allotment Adjoining Vernon Heights

J. W. Atkinson, Galion civil engineer, started work today making a survey of Elm Heights, a 19-acre allotment to be opened by the R. T. Lewis Co., adjoining Vernon Heights.

Following completion of the survey, the allotment will be platted and placed in readiness for the market. Preliminary plans include a system of streets, boulevards and park grounds which will fit in perfectly with the plan of Vernon Heights.

The site for Elm Heights was purchased recently by the R. T. Lewis Co. from Mrs. Ida D. Mouser.

In furtherance of the plans to have the addition conform strictly with the arrangement of Vernon Heights, the Lewis company has purchased one of the Vernon Heights lots which is to be vacated to provide for extending Kingsav south into Elm Heights. This will establish a thoroughfare connecting the new addition and Vernon Heights.

William Pitkin, noted Cleveland landscape architect who planned Vernon Heights, has also been employed for landscaping Elm Heights, thus assuring absolute unity and harmony in the general plan of the two allotments.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fulk, Blaine-av, have returned home from Cadillac, Mich., where they attended funeral services for their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Streby and daughter, Betty Jane, and son, Wallace, killed in a railroad crossing accident there recently.
